GENOA MEET TO ADJOURN FRIDAY

CONCEDE PINCHOT GETS NOMINATION IN PENNSYLVANIA

HAS SAFE LEAD OVER ORGANIZATION CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR.

PEPPER IS NOMINATED BY A LARGE MAJORITY

Defeats William J. Burke, the Present Congressman-at-Large.

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—Returns from 7,543 districts out of 7,961 election districts in Pennsylvania in Tuesday's primary so far tabulated show a majority of 8,037 for Gifford Pinchot for the republican gubernatorial nomination over Attorney General E Alter. With 391 districts missing Pinchot's total was 498,986, and Alter's 488,949.

PHILADELPHIA, PA, May 18 — A steady increase in his lead over Attorney General George E. Alter for the republican nomination for governor of Pennsylvania was maintained today by Gifford Pinchot, former state forester, who was prominent in the progressive party movements in 1912 and 1914. Pinchot jumped into the lead early last night when about 7,000 of the 7,934 districts in the state had reported their unofficial returns from Tuesday's primary and nearly every additional district heard from during the night increased his majority.

With 426 districts missing Pinchot early today had a lead of 7,839, the unofficial vote in the 7,468 districts reporting giving him a total of 495,642 against 487,803 for Alter. Pinchot obtained his lead from districts outside of Philadelphia and Allegheny county, in which Pittsburgh is located, and as most of the missing districts are in sections where Pinchot showed the greatest strength, his advantage was expected to grow as more returns were received

Outside of Philadelphia and Allegheny, Pinchot's vote in the 7,062 districts was 324,518 against 190,027 for Alter The latter carried Philadelphia by 83 048 and in Allegheny with a few districts to be heard from he had a lead of 43,794, the total vote in the two counties being: Alter 297,744 and Pinchot 170,924

Alter's supporters have conceded Pinchot's nomination and estimate today of his margin of victory ran from ten to twenty thousand

Women played a big part in the result. Mrs. Pinchot in a statement today said it was the women who had brought about the result.

"It is springtime and there has been many a postponed house cleaning that my husband might ride to victory," she said.

United States Senator George Wharton Pepper had a walkover in the only other contest in the republican party, defeating Congressman at Large William J. Burke for the nomination for the unexpired term of the late Senator Penrose by a big majority.

LIVELY TILT OVER SENATE DIFFICULTY GAINING QUORUM

WASHINGTON, May 18—The senate had difficulty in mastering a quorum for its tariff session last night, but after it had gotten back to work Senator Underwood of Alabama, the democratic leader, said he had been informed that during his absence at dinner the sergeant at arms had reported to the senate that the democrats who were in town and absent were well and that all of the republicans who were in town and absent were sick with the exception of three.

"What I want to know," he said, "is whether the performance on the pending bill is the cause of so much sickness in the republican family."

"It might have been the result of the primary election in Pennsylvania," remarked Senator Caraway, democrat, of Arkansas

"That is true," said Senator Underwood.

"That would not make anybody sick, I will say to the senator from Alabama," declared Senator Smoot, republican, Utah. "That was expected."

RUSSIAN DELEGATE DECLARES FRANCE IS NOW ISOLATED

SAYS CHIEF RESULT OF CONFERENCE WAS BURIAL OF THE ENTENTE.

SOVIET PLANS TO MAKE INDEPENDENT TREATIES

Agreements in Future With Other Countries On Basis Rapallo Treaty.

By Associated Press.

MOSCOW, May 18.—After receiving the report of M. Joffes, one of the Russian delegates at Genoa, who has just returned here, the Russian executive committee resolved that Russia shall make agreements in the future with other countries on the basis of the Rapallo agreement with Germany.

M. Joffe declared that the chief result of the Genoa conference was "the burial of the entente," as France was now to be isolated.

"We wanted a million dollar loan," continued M. Joffe, "but Lloyd-George said there would be no state loan, that only private loans were possible. We decided not to sign any agreements which we could not or would not like to fill."

WASHINGTON INTEREST IN LLOYD GEORGE MESSAGE

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Interest in the Washington end of the situation regarding The Hague conference plan centered largely today in the report from Paris yesterday that it was understood Premier Lloyd George had sent another message to the United States government giving a fuller explanation of the plan for the adjourned meeting of an international commission there to further examine the Russian problem No additional messages had been received early today, state department officials said, and in the absence of official advices they declined to comment on the report that such a message had been dispatched.

Close observers of the attitude of American officials toward the Russian question, however, were convinced that the American government's continuance of the invitation to join in the work of The Hague commission was based on a fixed purpose to remain wholly aloof from any arrangement marking the least approach toward recognition of the soviet government and from which there was no disposition to recede It was reestablished today that the United States stands ready to join with the other powers in any purely scientific investigation of conditions in Russia with a view to recommending steps necessary for that country's economic rehabilitation, but that it believes such restoration could not be hoped for under the terms outlined in the Russian memorandum of May 11 at Genoa.

BARS DOWN FOR A GENERAL DEBATE IN MINERS' MEETING

MUSKOGEE, OKLA, May 18—With the bars down for a general discussion of dissensions within the miners' union, delegates to the special convention of district 21, United Mine Workers of America, opened their fourth session here today, expecting to hear further argument for and against the international organization

Harry Fishwick, vice-president of the Illinois district, D. A. Frampton, personal representative of John L. Lewis, international president, were voted permission yesterday to speak to the convention today. John Wilkinson, president of district 21 and a supporter of Lewis, is also expected to answer an address yesterday by Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois district and an opponent of Lewis

Farrington, in his address yesterday flayed International President Lewis as one "who is doing more than any other man to destroy the United Mine Workers"

VIGOROUS DEFENSE OF PRESIDENT OF MINERS

By Associated Press.

MUSKOGEE, OKLA, May 18—A vigorous defense of John L. Lewis international president of the United Mine Workers of America, was voiced here today by Van A. Bittner, representative of the international union, in an address before the special convention of district 21 of the miners' union

Declaring that an "insidious propaganda" is being circulated against Lewis by his enemies, Mr. Bittner said it "is time some one was answering these slanderous statements." He said that it is patently a personal fight on Lewis because no other member of the executive board of the international organization has been connected with Lewis in attacks made on him.

Stating that he had heard Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois district of the miners' union, say that he thought the present national coal strike "was lost before it started" Mr. Bittner leveled his finger at Farrington and declared that "this strike is not lost and this battle is going to be won despite the statement of any living man who disagrees."

Farrington arose and objected to the charge that he had voiced such a prediction. Bittner replied that it was in the record of the last meeting of the international policy committee.

METHODIST BOARD REORGANIZES UNDER THREE DEPARTMENTS

HOT SPRINGS, May 18.—In revising the legislation governing the operation of the missions board the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, in session here, wrote an entirely new explanation for the board, which abolished the office of general secretary and provided that the body shall reorganize under three departments—foreign missions, home missions and department of women's work. Each department will have two secretaries who will co-ordinate in authority.

It became known today that members of the college of bishops are at work on assignments as to Episcopal districts, and it was said that the assignments may be announced before the conference adjourns.

The Missouri Episcopal district, embracing three annual conferences in the state, together with the annual conference of Denver, Colo., has invited Bishop W. F. McMurray of Louisville to take charge of that district.

ELECTIONS HOLD INTEREST AT METHODIST CONFERENCE

By Associated Press

HOT SPRINGS, May 17—Elections held the center of interest again today at the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, and the delegates continued to choose secretaries of the various boards under the supervision of the conference More than a dozen secretaries remained to be named.

While the conference waited for the tellers to cast up the ballots transaction of calendar business proceeded.

The body has made rapid progress in transacting business the last two days and this morning only two or three important matters stood out from the remaining business. Those were the questions of unification with the southern branch of Methodism and merging the southern body's interest with those of the church of the United Brethren in Christ and as to the time ministers shall remain on pastorate assignments. Under the present system the pastors remain at one station within the discretion of the bishop and the presiding elder. A majority committee report on the calendar would leave the present plan unchanged while one minority report would abolish any limit and another minority report would restore the four year limit as prevailed until changed four years ago.

URGE THAT FRIEND OF PROHIBITION BE ELECTED

HOT SPRINGS, ARK, May 18.—Declaring that one of the vital issues confronting the American people is whether they will stand by those members of congress who have voted to maintain the prohibition amendment, a report of the committee on temperance and social service to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, here today, calls upon members of the church "to keep the friends of federal prohibition in congress."

"The only certain place to determine the issue is in the primary and general elections," says the report, and added "indifference means defeat, united activity means victory"

The report declares unequivocally against the manufacture of light wines and beer, demands that "while the eighteenth amendment is a part of the constitution, it should be honestly and uniformly enforced," and says that congress, in spite of desperate efforts of wet members, has by overwhelming majorities done its sworn duty.

GOVERNMENT WILL CONSTRUCT NO MORE SHIPS SAYS LASKER

STATEMENT MADE IN ADDRESS BEFORE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

DISCUSSES PROGRAM FOR A SHIP SUBSIDY

Declares It Artificial Means to Meet Situation Confronting America.

WASHINGTON, May 18. — The government will build no more ships, Chairman Lasker of the shipping board declared in an address today before the annual convention here of the chamber of commerce of the United States. President Harding has placed before congress a program of legislation that undertakes to overcome the difficulties now facing private operation of ships, he added, and unless that legislation is now enacted the art of shipbuilding "in America will wither and die."

Mr Lasker said that the proposed ship subsidy legislation admittedly consisted of "artificial means to meet the situation, but it is only through the temporary use of artificial means that the situation can be permanently saved and this administration declares its belief that the adoption of the program which it proposes will save the situation and make America potent in its own rights on the seas" America must have a merchant marine comparable to that of Great Britain, the speaker added, if it is to have a naval power potentially equal to that of Great Britain

"If all the naval ships in the world were scrapped," Mr. Lasker said, "Great Britain through her preponderant merchant marine would be more supreme on the seas than she could ever hope to be otherwise Certain types of merchant ships are as essential to the operation of a navy in times of war as the capital ship of the navy itself In these types America is sadly deficient compared with Great Britain at the ratio of almost five to one in favor of the latter And there can be no thought or hope of the United States keeping a naval parity with Great Britain unless we create merchant marine power to equalize this difference"

Mr Lasker said his experience as chairman of the shipping board had convinced him that government ownership or operation of ships "is as poison ivy in the garden of industry."

HOUSTON, May 18—Mrs. Opal Rexroat Kinney and her husband, Ludie Kinney, located in Houston late yesterday after a country-wide search, are ready to return to Ardmore tonight with former Sheriff "Buck" Garrett of Carter county, Okla., and face any charges which may have been filed against them by Mrs Kinney's father

Both Mr. and Mrs. Kinney said they feel certain they will be able to explain satisfactorily the bigamy charge filed against Kinney and say they are glad of the opportunity to return and have the entire affair cleared up

Mrs. Kinney declares she loves her husband and expects to stand by him in spite of the protests of her father. She said she passed her 18th birthday last October and considered she had a perfect right to get married and handle her own business.

FRISCO BRAKEMAN AND ENGINEER ARE KILLED IN WRECK

ARDMORE, OKLA, May 18—Two men were killed and another probably fatally injured when a St. Louis San Francisco freight train plunged through the bridge over Boggy river near Sopher, about 50 miles east of here, at midnight last night, according to word here today. Five cars with the engine and tender dropped from an embankment, 25 feet high.

The dead are: Harvey McDaniel, brakeman, and Engineer J. F Hume, both of Hugo, Okla

The fireman, whose name could not be learned, was injured

The train was derailed as it was backing over a bridge into a water tank and plowed through the bridge, rear end first, into the Boggy creek bed. The engine and tender were piled on top of the wreck and several of the cars were telescoped.

WASHINGTON May 18—Secretary Hoover asked and obtained today the approval of the leading operators of northern bituminous coal fields for a government plan of "getting the coal industry by voluntary action to put a stop point on increase of coal prices" during the period of the existing coal strike

The plan which was approved by about 40 operators who met with Mr. Hoover, calls for the creation of a committee of operators with government and consumers' representatives serving on it in each district where coal is being produced, through which all orders for coal will be cleared A similar general committee will be set up in Washington and Mr Hoover assured the coal operators that he had Attorney General Daugherty's opinion that such "co-operative action to reduce and hold down prices in the public interest" would be legal

BEAUMONT SHERIFF READY TO REPLY TO THE 73 QUESTIONS

BEAUMONT, May 18—With apparently all known means for obtaining a change of venue exhausted when a second petition was overruled in the 60th district court this morning, indications are that the impeachment case against Sheriff Tom H Garner will go to trial

The second petition for change of venue was based on the statute that prejudice exists in the county which would make it impossible for the sheriff to obtain a fair trial here.

When the motion for venue change was overruled by Judge McDowell, attorneys for Sheriff Garner said the sheriff is now ready to answer the 73 questions regarding the Ku Klux Klan propounded recently before a notary public here, and which Sheriff Garner at that time declined to answer because he said the court did not have jurisdiction.

He recently admitted that he was at one time a member of the Ku Klux Klan

OBTAINED FROM WIFE AND BROTHER-IN-LAW OF MAN KILLED.

CHARGE OUTGROWTH OF CRUELTY TO WIFE

Body Was Found in the Ship Channel Near Goose Creek Last Saturday.

WAXAHACHIE, TEXAS, May 18—An alleged confession to the slaying of W. R. Simms, whose body, heavily weighted down with iron, was found in the ship channel near Goose Creek last Saturday, has been obtained from Mrs. Laura Simms, wife of the dead man, and Earl Beavers, his brother-in-law, according to T A Binford, sheriff of Harris county. Beavers, Mrs. Simms and another woman, and the latter's daughter are in jail here, where the alleged confession was made last night.

Mrs. Simms declared the killing of her husband was the outgrowth of alleged cruelty to his wife, officers said today. She confessed, it was stated, to striking Simms over the head with an iron poker.

Beavers in his alleged statement, said he was present in the Simms home and that he and Simms started for a gun hanging over the door, officers said. Beavers beat Simms to the gun and shot the latter, after which he and Mrs. Simms weighted the body down in the water, according to the alleged confession.

The other woman and her daughter, arrested at the time Beavers and Mrs Simms were taken into custody here Wednesday, declare they know nothing of the affair

SOUTHERN BAPTISTS SCHOOL INVESTMENT EXCEEDS ALL OTHERS

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., May 18.—Women were admitted to membership on the executive committee and the various boards of the southern Baptist convention here.

By Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE, FLA, May 18—Southern Baptists have a larger investment in educational institutions than any other denomination in the south, according to the annual report of the education board made public in connection with today's session of the southern Baptist convention

Growth also was shown in the convention's foreign mission work and in the women's missionary union, although the $1,759,478 received for foreign missions from the $75,000,000 campaign in the last twelve months was less than in the previous year. The work of the foreign mission and education boards was the chief topic before today's sessions.

The educational board, of which Dr. W. C. James of Birmingham is corresponding secretary, announced that 119 institutions with a total enrollment of 18,569 women and 12,097 men are being operated in sixteen states.

The property value of the institution was estimated at $26 181 461, and their total endowments $11,-333,793

The financial depression since the last annual convention was the cause of the decreased receipts for foreign missions, said Dr J F Love, Richmond, secretary of the foreign mission board.

SIX PERSONS DEAD OR MISSING RESULT OF BRIDGE COLLAPSE

MARLIN, TEXAS, May 18—A detachment of army engineers was expected here today to construct a pontoon bridge across Brazos river to replace the Bolton bridge which collapsed Tuesday under pressure of flood waters and as a result of which six persons are dead or missing. NON-AGGRESSIVE PACT ADOPTED BY ALL DELEGATIONS EXCEPTING FRANCE, BELGIUM AND GERMANY

By Associated Press

GENOA, May 18.—The non-aggression pact was adopted unanimously at a plenary meeting of the political sub-committee of the Genoa conference today. The pact was not signed, but was adopted in the form of a resolution, each state pledging itself to respect it.

All the delegates attended the session except those of France, Belgium and Germany

The delegates affirmed that they would recommend the pact to their governments It seems likely it will be ratified generally as adopted

The final plenary session of the conference was fixed for 9 o'clock Friday morning The conference will probably be concluded at noon

The British have ordered a special train for early tomorrow afternoon The other delegations plan a hasty departure

Final adoption of the truce pact was without incident.

Lithuania inquired whether the truce would prevent Poland from attacking her in connection with the dispute over Vilna or the other boundary questions between the two nations. Lithuanians were assured the peace would be general.

The non-aggression pact provides for the appointment of a commission by the powers to examine the divergencies between the soviet government and other governments with a view to meeting not later than June 20 a Russian commission having the same mandate. The pact contains six clauses, one of which follows.

"To permit the commissions to work peacefully, and also to reestablish mutual confidence, the soviet government and its allied republics on the one side, and the other governments on the other, pledge themselves to abstain from any act of aggression and subversive propaganda. The pledge for abstaining from any act of aggression will be based upon the present status quo, and will remain in force for a period of four months after the conclusion of the work of the commissions"

The pledge concerning propaganda will obligate the governments not to interfere in any way in the internal affairs of other states, and not to assist financially or by any other means political organizations in other countries and will oblige them to suppress in their territory "any attempt to commit acts of violence in other states or aiming to disturb the territorial or political status quo."

EXPECTED TO ADJOURN AFTER PLENARY SESSION

GENOA, May 18.—Final ratification of the plans for a gathering of experts at The Hague to consider Russian questions was expected today at the meeting of the full political committee, which includes delegates of all the countries represented here A plenary session of the conference will be held tomorrow after which adjournment probably will be taken

The process verbal providing for dual commissions at The Hague was adopted by the sub-commission yesterday, and after approval today the document will be sent to the United States government, probably with a letter again extending an invitation for American participation.

Those who predicted big immediate achievements here in the way of restoring Russia and Europe, point in addition to The Hague conference, the forthcoming meetings of international bankers and banks of issue at Paris and London and the preliminary non-aggression pact as notable victories

Moreover they maintain that a great moral good has been accomplished in Europe by the assembly and inter-communion here of representatives of thirty-two nations, the greatest union in its way in the history of Europe.

The road has been cut for further useful conferences of the European peoples, perhaps in conjunction with the Americans, whereby the economic reconstruction of the world may be achieved and international disputes settled by congresses instead of cannon.

FURTHER ADVICES HAVE BEEN RECEIVED FROM U. S.

GENOA, May 18.—Sir Edward Grigg announced on behalf of the British delegation this afternoon that further advices had been received from the United States government and that it did not seem likely that the United States would participate in The Hague meeting, at least until that scope of the meeting was better understood.

Asked to explain the British delegates' statement, Richard Washburn Child, the American ambassador told the correspondent he had conferred with Foreign Minister Schanzer of Italy, Prime Minister Lloyd George being present, and amplified the position concerning The Hague meeting already explained in the note to Secretary of State Hughes.

MAKE PUBLIC THE CONFESSION MADE BY DRIVER OF CAR

GIVES NAMES OF TWO MEN WHO WERE WITH HIM IN AUTOMOBILE.

TO ASK INDICTMENT OF FOUR MORE PEOPLE

Suspect Arrested Wednesday in the Case Is Being Removed To Chicago.

CHICAGO May 18—Police today made public a confession said by them to have been obtained from John Miller, alleged driver of the car from which shots were fired killing two Chicago policemen May 9 in the so-called labor war The two men who were with Miller in the car, according to his confession, were Charles Daudzauskis, alias "Frederick," and "Blesting" Stanley Search for the men was started today.

Indictment of at least four more persons, one a woman, will be asked of the grand jury today in connection with the police hunt for terrorists who police say are operating a protest against the Landis wage award, a decision which was supposed to settle differences between contractors and members of the Chicago building trades council

Miller's confession was obtained, police say, when he was confronted with evidence connecting him with the slaying of Terrence Lyons, acting lieutenant, and Thomas Clark, patrolman

Miller was examined closely by the police to determine his connection with bombings and other disorders, but he denied any connections with them

"He has only told us of the shooting," one officer said, "and he has tried to conceal his part in the whole affair The names of Daudzauskis and Stanley sound fictitious."

Another suspect arrested in Wilkesbarre, Pa, yesterday in connection with the Chicago labor disorders is said to be on his way back to Chicago today in custody of authorities.

The woman against whom police say an indictment will be asked is believed to be Mrs. Margaret Miller, wife of John Miller Police say she admitted seeing bombing parties set out from the Miller home.

Kickham Scanlon, chief justice of the criminal courts, practically refused to grant an immediate trial to the "big three"—Fred Mader, president of the Chicago building trades council, Big Tim Murphy, head of the gas house workers union and street sweepers union, and "Con" Shea of the theatrical janitors union, indicted in connection with the slaying of the policemen. Hearing on their application was postponed until Monday.

Investigation of the fire which damaged the $50,000 apartment house Tuesday night is also being continued today Police claim to have further evidence that the fire was of incendiary origin and blame "terrorists" as the building was being erected under the Landis award Armed guards were placed on duty in all other buildings being erected under this agreement They have orders to shoot to kill all prowlers who refuse to obey their first command to halt

TEXAS CROPS ARE DELAYED BY LATE CONTINUED RAINS

ALL CROPS ARE FROM THREE TO FIVE WEEKS LATE, SAYS REPORT.

WESTERN PORTION OF STATE IN FINE SHAPE

Outlook For Normal Cotton Crop is Very Discouraging at This Time.

DALLAS, TEXAS, May 18.—Unseasonable weather and continued rainfall have delayed all crops for three to five weeks, a statement issued by the Texas industrial congress states. The eastern two-thirds of the state has had excessive rains, which have done much damage to early planted corn, cotton and other crops, in many cases making it necessary for them to be replanted, it is reported.

The western portion of the state and the panhandle have had good rains which have put the ranges in fine shape, supplied abundant stock water, improved the prospects for a good wheat yield and made conditions very favorable for row crops.

Much damage to corn in the central, north and east parts of the state has resulted from heavy rains that have washed the uplands and overflowed the bottoms, it is stated. Under present conditions corn that is planted before June 15 will make a crop.

Wheat and oats have been benefited by the rains, which have caused the heads to fill out and the yield of these grains promises well. So far there have been no reports received by the congress of any rust or insect damage.

The outlook for a normal cotton crop is very discouraging, according to the congress. The crop is late and except in south Texas much of it, perhaps 25 per cent, has not been planted. In some sections of south Texas replanting was necessary in April because of the late freeze in March.

The commercial potato crop in the Brazos and Colorado valleys is reported by the congress almost, if not entirely, destroyed by floods.

Seventy-five per cent of the peach crop is a failure, but strawberries have made good yields in east and south Texas, the congress reports, and the blackberry crop promises to be unusually large. Tomatoes and other truck crops have sustained no great damage from unfavorable weather conditions and the yields promise well.

2 WORLD'S RECORDS BROKEN AT ARDMORE

Troch and Miller Have High Scores at Oklahoma Championship Shoot.

ARDMORE, OKLA., May 18—Frank Troch of Vancouver, B. C., world's champion trap marksman, and Phil Miller of Dallas, established two world's records in the annual three day shoot of the Oklahoma Gun association which ended here yesterday, according to a statement today from Troch.

The first record score was made, Troch said, when the two men missed only seven targets each in the regularly registered shoot of 350—400 singles, 25 pairs of doubles and the 100 handicap. The second high average, he said, is shown by Miller's tally of eight lost and Troch's 11 lost out of the total of 600 targets which each shot during the meet.

Jimmy Keating of Oklahoma City won the professional championship of the state yesterday in the final round. He broke 380 of the possible 400 targets. Mrs Lenora Foster of Tulsa won the woman's state title. Mrs. Fred Eichen of Coffeyville, Kan., state champion, was high score in the women's event but was not eligible for the tournament.

FORMER MINISTER OF WYOMING DENIES HE WAS UNFROCKED

DENVER, COLO., May 18.—The Rev. George Chalmers Richmond, former minister of Evanston, Wyo., who is a guest at a local hotel, emphatically denies the statement printed in newspapers that he had been "unfrocked" by Bishop N. S. Thompson of the Episcopal church in Wyoming or that he had ever been unfrocked.

The Rev Mr Richmond declared, in speaking of the happenings prior to the time he left Evanston, Wyo., that he had been so active in reform work and in fighting the liquor and gambling interests of Evanston, that he had been assaulted and mobbed and that he had been requested to give up his parish by these interests and to leave Evanston. He also said that because of his work and bitter utterances against the violations of the law, Bishop Thompson finally had requested him to give up his church at Evanston.

"There is a great difference between being 'unfrocked' and vacating a pastorate," the Reverend Richmond declared.

"Unfrocked may carry with it the implication of immorality, heresy or unfaithfulness, and I have no blot on my record that in any way borders on this. I was removed from the pastorate of that particular church because of the strength of the fight that I put into my campaign against vice. I know of no place where it has been considered a sin for a minister to fight the vice of drink and gambling."

The Rev. Richmond said he had come to Denver with the intention of making his home here. He formerly served in pastorates in Syracuse, N. Y., Philadelphia, Rochester, N. Y., and other eastern cities.

SIXTEEN PERISH IN FIRE THAT SWEEPS HOSPITAL IN ROME

FOUR OTHERS SADLY BURNED AND ONE IS DANGEROUSLY INJURED.

MAKE HEROIC EFFORTS TO SAVE THE PATIENTS

Institution Accommodates 5,000 in Hospital, Lunatic Asylum and Foundling Home.

By Associated Press.

ROME, May 18.—A disastrous fire swept the historic hospital of Santo Spirito, one of the most ancient and picturesque charitable institutions in Rome, early today. Collapse of the pavement isolated the chronic ward. Sixteen bodies had been extracted from the burning ruins at 7.30 o'clock.

The institution accommodates nearly 5,000 inmates and includes a hospital, lunatic asylum, foundling home and a refuge for aged and infirm persons.

The fire broke out shortly before midnight in the laundry. At first it seemed insignificant but it spread rapidly to the neighboring wards, each containing 30 chronic sufferers or infirm patients who were seized with panic. The shrieks of the sufferers mingled with the crackling of the flames while the atmosphere rapidly became dense with smoke.

Nurses and doctors quickly cleared the bedridden from one ward and in the next ward three of the patients crawled out. Neighboring firemen rushed to the scene but at the moment of the arrival the electric lights were extinguished, adding to the horror of the situation.

As the immense wooden beams of the hospital fell there was a heavy grinding noise and the pavement collapsed burying 20 of the chronic patients and rendering access to the wards impossible.

Carbineers, royal guards, nurses and doctors made heroic efforts to save the patients, rushing through the smoke and fire and bringing out 12 all of whom, however, were dead from suffocation. Several of the rescue parties were injured. The two wards were destroyed but the firemen saved the rest of the buildings.

Sixteen bodies already have been recovered. Four other patients were badly burned and one dangerously injured.

FRIEND OF FEARLESS AVIATOR PLEADED WITH LIRETTE NOT TO MAKE LEAP AT VERON SUNDAY

VERNON, TEXAS, May 18.—"Are you ready?" Two thousand feet in the air, the wind whistling under the tremendous impetus of the plane which carried him Ed Lirette, intrepid aviator who had won nationally the title of Daredevil Lirette, framed the words on his lips to his pilot, M. M. Merrill, as the two soared high above the heads of a crowd Sunday afternoon which thronged the aviation field three and one-half miles south of Vernon.

Merrill nodded. Lirette stood poised on the edge of the plane, one hand grasping a strut, the other holding fast to the ring of his parachute. Without another sign he toppled backward off the plane, the parachute following him for the first seventy-five feet like the tail of some heavenly meteor. There was a burst of white as the canvas opened, a jerking pause in the flight of the body suspended beneath it, and the there shot out before the sight of the horrified spectators the figure of a man wildly clawing, vainly clutching the air through which he hurtled to his death.

Ed Lirette, for every day of the past year a denizen of the air for the last three years an exhibition flyer of note and an army aviator of distinction—had made his last flight. For more than eleven seconds he flew to eternity while thousands watched his course and shuddered.

There was a sickening thud, a spray of dirt and water, and the plane high above the head of the fallen aviator suddenly dipped its nose to the earth, rivaling in its fall the plummet-like drop of its former inmate. Pilot Merrill, human aerial companion and brother exhibition flyer, was coming on a forlorn quest to the rescue of his pal.

Before the wheels of the ship had ceased revolving after its descent to the ground, Merrill was out into the shallow branch upon which his brother aviator floated. The water was well above the rescuer's waist, but he half shoved, half dragged the body in his grasp until he had it part way on the bank. Then came the vanguard of other rescuers.

Life had gone when Merrill reached the side of Daredevil Lirette, and must have departed instantly at the terrible impact. Many are of the opinion that Lirette breathed his last before his body struck the earth, but Merrill shakes his head.

"I don't believe it," he says. "I watched Ed fall every foot of the way and he pawed the air until he hit the ground. I feel sure that he must have been alive through it all."

Lirette's injuries indicate that he struck on the side of his head and shoulder, a hole of about two feet in depth on the bank of the creek attesting the force with which he hit the ground. The earth caved away under the impact and the body entered the water.

Lirette's fall, according to Merrill, was caused by the breaking of a wire in the safety belt which fastened around his waist. He was wearing full equipment when the accident occurred, but was forced to wear the parachute apparatus belonging to Frank Armstrong, a much lighter brother jumper, when his personal chute failed to arrive from Dallas.

"'Army' begged Ed not to jump," said Merrill after the accident, "because Ed was so much larger and the apparatus was far too small for him. Ed, though, wouldn't listen to it. 'Army' had made both jumps Saturday because Ed's outfit had not arrived, and Ed was determined to do his share of the performing."

"He had everything adjusted before he jumped, and I saw him put his safety belt on and snap it. He was standing on the edge of the plane, one hand holding to a strut and the other to a ring of his chute, just before he jumped off backwards. We were about a half mile east of the field and a wind blowing would have about carried him over the crowd had he floated down with his parachute.

"The canvas opened all right, and just when it should have, too. The fall was caused when the safety belt broke. The belt belonged to Ed personally. I heard 'Army' pleading with Ed before he went up not to make the jump. It seems he had had some sort of dream the night before about seeing Ed fall, and it was on his mind. Ed, though, wouldn't listen to it."

Merrill, whose home is in Dallas where Lirette also lived, paid many warm tributes to his "buddy."

"Ed didn't know the meaning of fear," said the pilot, "and I have never seen such remarkable nerve, coolness and disregard of danger. I will wager that when the belt broke Sunday Ed had a smile on his lips. He was that kind. I hate to think, though, that he had to be killed in a parachute jump. Anyone can do that. Ed's specialties were real stunts."

The body of Lirette was shipped to Houma, La., from Vernon Monday at 1:30 p. m. Numbers of local citizens gathered at the station to pay their last respects to the departed man who knew no fear, and willing hands trundled the truck carrying the coffin over the rough bricks, lifted the casket tenderly from its conveyance, and transmitted it to the confines of the baggage car. There were many moist eyes as the long train recommenced its journey with a jerk. Women on the platform dabbed at eyes with handkerchiefs, men blinked suspiciously and sniffed audibly, and one, a leather capped young fellow who only the day before had soared in the heavens with a robust form now still and cold, leaned his head on a nearby truck and wept.

USE OF SCOTLAND PARK FOR TOURISTS IS URGED BY BOARD

In a letter addressed to members of the city council, members of the municipal park board have taken issue with A. L. Huey on the latter's protest against using Scotland park for a tourist camping ground.

The board decided to open the Scotland tract to automobile tourists when it was ascertained that the Jalonic street tract, originally acquired for a tourist camp site, could not be equipped with shade and suitable conveniences for another year, and that it would cost $12,000 to make the needed improvements Shade, water, cooking facilities and toilets are already available in Scotland, the park board points out, so that the temporary use of that park for automobile tourists seemed desirable

The park board also contends that in using Scotland Park as a tourist camp ground, the city is not violating its agreement with the donors of the tract, as the tract is maintained as a park from year to year. The board suggests that a limit of 48 hours be placed on campers so as to avoid anyone trying to make a permanent home there

Dr. J. F. Reed, the city council's representative on the park board, is understood to favor using Jalonic park for the tourists The matter is expected to come up for further action by the council

POLICE DISCOURAGING USE OF ALLEYS FOR PARKING PURPOSES NOW

The city ordinance against parking cars in downtown alleys is now receiving the attention of the police department, which has painfully surprised several autoists by arresting them for this offense. The ordinance has been disregarded, by more or less general consent, for some time, with the result that the alleys have been extensively used for parking purposes Two fines were assessed in city court for the offense Thursday morning

A woman who had left her machine in the safety zone near a downtown corner, admitted her guilt, but was so earnest in her protestation of ignorance of the law that no fine was assessed She had been driving a car only since Monday, she told the court The fact that she appeared in person, something which most female traffic offenders disdain to do, probably had something to do with the failure to assess a fine

A Book a Week for the Children This Summer; Get Them From Library

Librarian at Kemp Public Library Arranges List by Grades From Third to Eighth, With a Book a Week Provided for Children's Summer Reading—Look It Over.

"They unlearn more in the summer months than they learn in six months!" many a teacher has grieved, after the first week or two of trying to get young folks back to "normalcy" in their fall work.

The reason is that there is so little provision made for any mental application—even of the lightest and most entertaining sort—for the school children in the summer. Mothers and fathers who have helped "prod" the young folks through their work in the fall and winter terms want a vacation from the effort.

But Kemp library—along with the best recognized educators and authorities—knows it isn't a good thing to let the mind rest too completely for too long a term. So, Friday afternoon each ward school child from the third grade to the seventh inclusive, and the dignified eighth graders, will be presented a neat little list of twenty-five books, arranged according to grade, to take home and study over.

The twenty-five suggested books, forming a list compiled after long thought and careful consideration by the Kemp librarian, will provide a book for each week of the summer vacation, many of which can be read in an hour or so. All of them are delightfully entertaining as well as "good reading" in the more serious sense.

Parents are recommended to look the lists over, and encourage the children to take up the book-a-week plan. It is a splendidly profitable one in every sense, and would make a pretty good game for the youngsters.

The book lists are each printed in the form of a little book-mark slip, and each child will be given one at the schools Friday. However, any child who is missed, or is not at school, may get a list from Kemp library or clip this one from The Times. The full lists are given below; look them over and see how many you have read yourself, or how many are on your child's book shelf. Every one of them—duplicate copies, of course—is at Kemp library, and the children are cordially invited to make use of them

TICKET SALES GOING BIG FOR MAY 26 PLAY

Alamo School Children Sell $125 Tickets For "Trip to Story-Book Land."

Advance ticket sales for the big Alamo Mothers council benefit play, "A Trip to Story Book Land," which will be presented Friday evening at the First M. E. church, South, by Miss Alzada Knickerbocker, are already going big. Thursday morning J. E. Park, chairman of the Alamo sales committee, reported that the children at that school had sold $125 worth of tickets already, although next week has been set for the real selling campaign

In view of the unusual interest manifested in the children's play, the Alamo Mothers council has ordered 600 extra tickets, and is expecting to sell out to a capacity audience. A committee of 40 mothers will have charge of the sales next week, and Miss Knickerbocker's pupils, who form the principals in the cast of the pretty play and pageant, are selling tickets themselves.

Fifty children from Alamo school form the choruses for the entertainment, and those who have attended rehearsals of the cast are unstinting in their praise.

COULD HARDLY STAND AT TIMES

Hips, Back and Legs would Have That Tired Ache

Everett, Washington.—"For several years I have had trouble with the lowest part of my back and my hips and my legs would ache with that tired ache. I could hardly stand on my feet at times. I was always able to do my work although I did not feel good. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and having heard several praise it I decided to try it. I feel first-rate at the present time. It has done wonders for me and I keep it in the house right along. I always recommend it to others who are sick and ailing."—Mrs. J. M. Sibbett, 2626 High St., Everett, Washington.

To do any kind of work, or to play for that matter, is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back or your legs to ache, it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of the trouble and then these nagging pains, aches and "no good" feelings disappear.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

THE FAIRY COUNCIL

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The Fairy Queen was waiting for the Twins.

Nancy and Nick are Twins.

One time the Fairy Queen gave them each a pair of Green Shoes, which were magical. These shoes could take the Twins anywhere on the earth or off of it, indeed, for that matter. They could go anywhere in the sky or in Fairylands by just wishing.

They had many wonderful adventures and proved a great help to the Fairy folk who looked after the Fairy Queen's Nine Hundred and Ninety-Nine Kingdoms, from helping Mr. Rubadub to spring-clean the birds and animals, to assisting Mr. Sprinkle-Blow in making the weather up in the sky.

Their last advanture was to settle a dispute between the Diddyevvers and the Korsknotts in Fairyland, where a wicked Sorcerer, called Twelve Toes, had caused trouble.

Now they have returned home over the Seven Mountains and the Seven Valleys and are greeted by the Fairy Queen in her Palace where they relate their adventures.

Their next adventure is to be "A Trip to the Moon."

The Fairy Queen was waiting for the Twins when they arrived at her Palace after a quick trip over the Seven Mountains. They just wished themselves back and whizz—they were there!

Everybody crowded around to hear the news, first of all their old friend, the Magical Mushroom, who had gone with the children on so many of their travels. Then there was Mr. Rubadub, and fat Mr. Tingaling, and thin Mr. Scribble-Scratch, and funny Mr. Flipperty-Flop, and Mr. Sprinkle-Blow, and Cap'n Pennywinkle, who had come on business from his country under the sea.

Indeed, all of the Fairy Queen's helpers were there, all ears to hear about the Twins' last wonderful adventure. You know they had been to the Land of the Diddyevvers and the Korsknotts to settle some trouble about two kings.

"You are certainly wonderful children!" smiled the good queen. "Whatever would I do without you? I hope you didn't have very much trouble. Are you tired?"

"Not a bit!" declared Nancy.

"Goodness no!" said Nick. "It was a lot of fun. Old Twelve Toes the Sorcerer did all he could to stop us, but our magic beat his every time."

"Would you like to help me some more?" said the Fairy Queen, thoughtfully.

"Oh, yes indeed," cried both Twins together. "Do you have another errand?"

"Yes," answered the Queen. "I have just had word from Mr. Peerobout, the Man-in-the-Moon, that he's so busy this spring he can't get along without help. The four winds are very handy and do all they can, but what with some folks wanting a full moon, some wanting it dark, some wanting a wet moon and some wanting it dry, even the winds aren't enough. He'd be ever so glad to have you for a while, I'm sure."

"Then we'll go," answered Nick, "wont we, Nancy?"

PRETTY HOSPITALITY HONORS TWO GUESTS

Mrs. H. O. Newton was hostess Wednesday afternoon at her home on Lucile street complimenting her niece, Mrs. C. L. Puckett, and Mrs. R. S. Healy's guest, Miss Lily Vaeth, both of Gainesville.

The Newton home was beautifully decorated with pots and clusters of Dorothy Perkins roses, and tables were arranged in the living and dining room for "500." At the close of the games the hostess presented remembrances for high score to Mesdames C. E. Banham and W. P. Killingsworth, who tied for high score and divided the gift of two lovely Madeira handkerchiefs, and for low to Mrs. S. M. Griswold—a pretty powder puff. Mrs Puckett and Miss Vaeth were complimented as honor guests with two beautiful framed sentiments.

Little Miss Eileen Newton very prettily assisted her mother in serving a delicious refreshment course of ice cream with cherries and angel food cake to the following: Mesdames E. M. Gipson, C. L. Puckett of Gainesville, S. M. Griswold, C. E. Cabiness, C. E. Brasham, R. S. Healy, W. P. Killingsworth, Gudger, and Bert Bean; Misses Lily Vaeth of Gainesville, Edith Berney, Farquhar and Annabelle Farquah, and Irene Davidson.

Several other hospitalities have been given and are to be given in compliment to the two guests. Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Healy entertained with a theatre party at the Wichita Wednesday evening for them, and Thursday afternoon Mrs. S. M. Griswold is entertaining with a matinee party at the Wichita.

Y. W. C. A. Protege Real "Lucky Dog" We Should Opine

David Butler, senior class protege of the Y. W. C. A. is the real "lucky dog," if Gage 'n the other fellers will permit the steal.

David has been with the Y. W. C. A. as caretaker, assistant heat, and anything else his genial dignity inclined him to take on, for the past three years. He has worked like a house afire most of the time and lived up to the immortal privilege of adolescent youth and eased up a bit a few times. But in all the three years he has been an absolutely indispensable, dependable, and willing adjunct to the Y. W. "staff." And David is getting his innings now, after a pretty long term of marinating science and sweeping, bookkeeping and bus boying, French and caretaking.

"What're we going to give David?" was the way it started.

G. Clint Wood, of the executive board of the Y. made the first answer. It was a complete and handsome outfit of clothing from hat to shoes, with all the other conventional properties in between.

The board made the answer—or, is making it. A purse of $50 for David's expenses at Junior College or State University.

And the Y. W. staff answered roll call. A beautiful solid gold, engraved fountain pen, such as few folks can own.

With the Business Women's club of the Y. W. leading the rear. A handsome leather traveling bag with his name plate 'n everything.

Maybe you think David ain't some lucky dog.

"Say-y-y!" whistled one of his friends Wednesday, seeing the traveling bag after hearing of the other things, "what'd they give you that movin' van for? They don't reckon you're going to leave do they?"

Lovely Roses Are Making the City Real Show Place

"If thou hast two loaves, sell one and buy a rose; thy soul, too, must be fed."

The immortal philosopher would scarcely need to urge his advice on Wichita Falls. The city at this moment is a wilderness of roses; the most exquisite blossoms imaginable, of every hue and shade and every variety that a rose is born in. There are even green roses—though the conventional red and pink and white roses will never yield in loveliness to the funny colored little blossoms so-called. And there are not only roses: there is every other variety of blossoms which could possibly, by any gracious stretch of adaptability, take root and prosper in the soil of Wichita Falls.

One of these varieties of beautiful flowers has a very grievous story attached to its short life in Wichita Falls—and this story forms part of the inevitable Chapter of Ugliness which accompanies everything beautiful that mankind has anything to do with. It is the old story of ruthlessness and theft on the part of children who have not been trained to regard the property rights of others in rose time, and who regard any beautiful blossom they see as fair game if the path is clear to getting it. Several lovers of their own gardens of roses have telephoned reports to The Times of such theft on the part of children—and possibly grown-ups—which were honestly pitiful.

But that chapter is aside from the real subject. Wichita Falls is a king's ransom of wealth in flowers, and every home ought to resolve itself into an individual art department for the training of its household in the love of the beautiful. No living room, in a home where there are flowers, should be without its fragrant offering to the most gracious of all instincts, and no dining table should be set without its lovely centerpiece of blossoms.

And it is scarcely probable that many instances such as the example "little Elsie" furnished would result from such effort to inspire beautiful thought. Little Elsie's teacher, the story runs, was trying to convey the same idea to her class regarding the power of beauty, and the six-year-old failed to get the point. Teacher tried to explain.

"Suppose your mother should fill a vase with some lovely flowers and put them in the center of the dining room table; well, think what your father would say."

"Oh, I know," exclaimed the thoughtful child, brightening. "He'd say, 'Whatthell them dam weeds doin' there?'"

OUR FIRST YEAR

CHAPTER XLI—FLAPPER AUDACITY!

By a Bride

Chaos prevailed in the auditorium of the Little Playhouse as always at rehearsal.

The original barn, once a vast and elegant shelter for a rich man's carriages, had been improved by the addition of a stage. This wing was Mr. Tearle's first contribution to the dramatic art of his city.

At the entrance of the auditorium, Jeanne detained me.

"Entrancing—as always!" she exclaimed. "Better than the play!"

The chairs of the auditorium were piled high against the walls. All the activities incident to staging a drama were in progress.

Two sewing machines had been put in the best light and two Norse maids, belonging to the Viking cast, set them to whirring madly during every pause in the rehearsal. The costumes for all parts were designed and made by members of the company.

Below the stage stood a pressing board, placed horizontally on two chair backs, the flatiron connected with a socket in the footlights. And upon the ironing board rested the director's megaphone, also the director's elbows, while he listened to the actors on the stage. I suppose Judge Ballou never before had been in touch with a laundry utensil.

Scattered in heaps upon the floor and tossed over chair backs were half finished costumes and a quantity of uncut flannelette of all colors, and scores of water color designs.

Suddenly Jeanne exclaimed:

"Look at Bonny!"

"I don't see how anybody could overlook her!" I replied. "She's the most astonishing note in this amazing jumble!"

"She's dressed for a dance," whispered Jeanne. I murmured that from our point of view she hardly seemed to be dressed at all. That audacious flapper was seated at a kitchen table, a stage "prop" which the publicity people had requisitioned for a writing desk.

"What's she up to?" queried Jack.

"Addressing envelopes, announcements of the production," I told him. "Looks absorbed, doesn't she? Well, she isn't. Bonny Tearle is perfectly conscious this minute that you are talking about her, that George Bradshaw doesn't take his eyes off from her, that her evening cloak has slipped from her shoulders, and that the only bits of her covering on view above that kitchen table are those rhinestone suspenders!"

Fifty persons worked in the rehearsal or worked for it or watched it that night. One hundred pairs of eyes gazed straight at Bonny when she rose to greet our party. She came, half running, a mere child in figure and gesture. But—that awful dress! Amazement made Jeanne and I almost rude.

In any normal social era it would have taken a young matron of 30, one with a lot of poise, sophistication and social prestige to get away with that dancing gown. And Bonny was only 18!

Her skirt was short and not very full. Her bodice was of silver cloth coming to an upward point in the middle of the front, barely as high as required; to each side of the point was attached a string of rhinestones laid on black velvet straps which went over her shoulders and fastened to her skirt at the belt. They could not ave been attached to the waist in the back for there was none. The silver bodice sloped low under the arms and tapered to nothingness behind.

Here is a home treatment for removing hairs that is quick, painless and inexpensive. With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to thickly cover the objectionable hairs, apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left soft, clear and hairless. This treatment will not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be careful to get real delatone. Mix fresh as wanted—adv.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT, IS FIERY, ITCHY OR ROUGH, USE SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.—adv.

PLAINVIEW MAKES PREPARATIONS FOR LARGE ATTENDANCE

PLANS COMPLETE TO CARE FOR WEST TEXAS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

MONSTER PARADE WILL FEATURE OPENING DAY

Spectacular Fireworks Display Is Scheduled for Evening May 22

By HAMILTON WRIGHT.

STAMFORD, May 18.—All roads leading to Plainview will be congested with tin lizzies, super-sixes, et cetera, Sunday provided the rains are staved off the remainder of the week, according to a statement given out by the West Texas chamber of commerce today.

While it is expected that the bulk of the travel to the fourth annual convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce at Plainview May 23 and 24 will be by rail thousands anticipate making the journey overland in cars, especially delegates from the interior and distant towns without direct railway connection. Much of the highway traffic is expected to pass over the Bankhead highway through Abilene to Sweetwate, thence through Snyder, Post, Slaton and Lubbock to the mecca of boosters, while another large contingent is expected to come through Stamford over the Fort Worth-Plains highway, passing through Albany, Aspermont, Spur, Floydada and Lockney. Plains towns sending large auto caravans will use the plains highways.

A monster parade will be a feature of the morning of the first day in Plainview. It will be several miles in length, interspersed here and there with playing bands and grouped according to towns, campaigns and the like. In the evening the fireworks displays will be spectacular and, particularly adapted to the occasion picturiing President Clifford B. Jones and other high chiefs of the organization

Assurances have been sent the head offices here by Secretary John Boswell of the Plainview chamber of commerce and board of city development that no one contemplating attending the convention need be anxious about a place to lay his head while in the city. The homes of practically the entire city have been opened wide with a welcome a yard long on the door. The hotels have gone to great expense to bring additional beds and accommodations for the needs of the people. There will be no parachuting of hotel prices, according to Boswell. This is a track that the honest people of the plains have never learned.

"Plainview proposes to maintain her usual decorum," declared John Boswell, chamber of commerce secretary. "Plainview has set its foot down on any effort which might be made to have the city 'open wide' on the occasion. The townspeople want everybody to have a good time and to that end we expect to work every hour our guests are here, but there will be no doling out doses of 'white lightning' or the providing of questionable amusements, as we intend to keep Plainview spotless and a paragon for future convention towns to pattern after"

Every visitor will have an opportunity to visit the irrigated farms, witness the shallow-well operations, and see a paradise where once was waste. The waving fields of verdant grain, the level plains, the matchless newness of a virgin country—all these will be open to the vision of the convention crowds.

In addition to furnishing a program of addresses, lectures and talks on West Texas and topics of general interest to all West Texas the convention will be a training school for all commercial secretaries and individuals who desire to learn more about the great west which is now undergoing the most miraculous metamorphosis in its history. The entertainment feature will be surpassing in its nature. The trip to the plains will be worth the money of the delegates and visitors All in all, it has been considerable the most profitable trip that any one can make.

Cheap railroad rates have been made for the occasion. Those making the trip should secure a receipt from their ticket agents when leaving for Plainview, for presentation on their return in order to get advantage of the convention rates.

Porter A. Whaley, manager, with temporary headquarters in Plainview, wires the general offices here that Plainview is making elaborate arrangements for the entertainment and accommodating of the thousands expected and would be very much disappointed if the crowds should be frightened away by rain.

NEW PAVING PROJECTS WILL START SHORTLY AFTER SEVERAL DELAYS

Work on the pending paving projects is expected to get activity under way now, after being held up by the recent wet weather. Three blocks on Indiana, eight blocks on Eleventh and seven blocks on Burnett are included in contracts now pending.

About 60 per cent of the property owners on Burnett, south of Eleventh street have signed up for the paving, and the bitulithic company is hopeful of securing most of the remainder. The number of protests filed on this project made it appear at first that it would be useless to attempt to go ahead with it.

Two blocks of concrete paving on Burnett will be opened to traffic shortly, between Eighth and Tenth, and work is now under way on the block from Tenth to Eleventh.

WAIVES EXTRADITION IN THE REXROAT CASE AND IS CARRIED TO ARDMORE

ALBUQUERQUE, N. U. T. Rexroat, father of the girl, who came here when it was reported that his daughter had been located with Lydia E. Kinney at an isolated ranch in the mountains near here, is awaiting advices from Houston, Texas, where the couple were reported arrested last night.

"I see you are beginning to formulate a philosophy of life. You will need it, my dear, if you mean to fight this out alone. Philosophy is good medicine only for lonely hearts. The others it merely hardens."

Lucinda eyed Willis sharply. "Bellamy has been to see you."

"He looked me up," Willis admitted in mild surprise, "two days after your disappearance, thinking you might have communicated with me. Of course, I could tell him nothing. But how did you know——?"

"That suggestion, the underlying thought that I might not be intended to fight out my fight alone—that originated with Bel, didn't it?"

"Well!" Willis stammered, trying to smile disarmingly—"I confess——"

"It wasn't enough, of course, that I should have found Bel out for the dozenth time, there had to be a lover in my background to account for my leaving him! Did he mention any name?"

Willis made a negative sign. "Bellamy didn't imply—he merely said he was afraid——"

"It doesn't matter. What else did he have to say?"

"He seemed most remorseful——"

"I know how remorseful Bel can seem."

"He spoke of employing detectives to trace you."

"It wouldn't do Bel any good to see me; it would only irritate him to find I could hold out against a plea he made in person."

Willis sighed, and renounced—"If you must, you must, I presume; and I will do my best to serve your wishes, my dear. Only tell me how * * *"

"Why, naturally, I want to get the divorce over with as quickly and quietly as possible, with the minimum amount of public scandal."

"The laws of the state of Nevada are most liberal. But it would be necessary for you to establish a legal residence by living there six months."

"I suppose that's unavoidable."

"I will look up the most reputable firm of lawyers there, and recommend you to them. If you are in need of other advice, you need only write or telegraph, and if the emergency requires it, I will come out to confer with you."

"I hope I won't have to impose on your kindness to that extent"

Willis blinked, removed the gold-rimmed pince-nez of his fading day, and polished the lenses with a silk handkerchief.

"And now," he pursued—"if you don't mind satisfying an inquisitive old man—I would very much like to know what you propose to do with your freedom, when you get it"

Lucinda jumped up and turned away with a quaver of desolation.

"Ah, I wish you hadn't asked me! That's what I'm trying all the time to forget——"

"I thought so."

"The emptiness to come! * * * What can a woman do to round out her life when she's lost her husband and is fit for nothing but to be a wife?"

"She can find another husband. Many do."

"Marry again!" A violent movement of Lucinda's hands abolished the thought. "Never that! I'm through with love for good and all."

"No doubt," agreed the student of law and life. "But are you sure that love is through with you?"

XIII

Willis left for New York on a late afternoon train; and when Lucinda had said goodby to him at the station, she felt as if she had parted with her one real friend in all the world.

She applied for transportation and a drawing-room through to Reno, but learned that the winter stampede of California tourists was in full westward swing. The best the agent could do was to book Lucinda through to San Francisco with a section to herself on the California Limited leaving the next night, arranging for her to return from San Francisco to Reno, a trip of some eleven hours.

Returning to the hotel about 5, she was approaching the elevators when, midway in the foyer, she stopped stock still, transfixed by the sight of Bellamy standing at the registry desk, in earnest consultation with one of the clerks.

Apparently Bellamy had just learned what he wanted to know; Lucinda recognized the backward jerk of the head that was an unfailing sign of gratification in him, and saw him turn away from the desk. Galvanized, she hurled herself toward one of the elevator shafts, the gate to which was even then being closed.

When she entered her room the telephone was calling. She locked the door, and for as long as it continued to ring, which it did for upwards of five minutes. At length she gave it up as a bad job, and she sank limply into a chair near the door, till a knock brought her to her feet in a flutter.

"Your bill, ma'm."

When she forced herself to turn key and knob, she more than half expected to see her husband. But the bellboy was alone. Lucinda took the bill and counted out the money.

"Take those bags, please," she said, indicating the new dressing-case and the bag which she had brought from New York, "put them in a taxi at the door, and hold it till I come down."

Running out into the hall, she found the stairs and pelted up two flights. One of the elevators was rising. It stopped two floors below, then came on up in response to her ring.

"Did you let somebody out at my floor?"

"Yes, ma'm, a gempman."

"Take me down, please, without stopping."

The car dropped with sickening rapidity, and she stepped out into the foyer in consternation when Bel placed himself before her, blocking her way to the street.

Her heart checked and raced, she

Lucinda broke out of his hands and stepped back.

was oddly at once aghast and elated Subconsciously she had wanted to see Bel, face to face, to see how he looked, how her flight had affected him

Though he seemed to be quite himself, his face looked thinner, his eyes a trifle more deeply set in his head; and there was new firmness in the set of his mouth.

In this new guise, the old appeal was strong. For a spick of several beats her heart misgave her * * *

In a matter-of-course way Bel offered a hand, and Lucinda touched it mechanically

"Sorry, Linda, if I disappointed you, but thought I recognized your handbag being carried to the door, and waited for this car to come down on the off-chance * * *"

"I see," she articulated with an effort.

"You can give me a few minutes, surely."

"Bel: I tell you it's too late."

Struggling to keep his temper, Bel caught his underlip between his teeth, while Lucinda cast wildly about for some way of escape. None offered. But she noticed that a young man standing nearby was observing them with keen interest, a rather brilliantly good-looking young man, brilliantly well dressed. As Lucinda's glance rested transiently on him, his face brightened with a tentative smile, and she thought he started as if he were impulsively moved to approach. If so, he reconsidered instantly. With a frown she looked back to Bel.

He made a gesture of entreaty. "You can't put me off like this, Linda, when I've come so far, gone through so much——"

"I can because I must, Bel—I will."

"No, by God! you can't and shan't!"

He caught her arm lightly as she tried to pass. She stopped, her face hardening.

"Are you going to make another scene, publicly disgrace me again even when sober?"

His hand dropped to his side. Lucinda began to walk rapidly toward the street entrance, but had taken few steps when Bellamy ranged alongside.

"Linda: you've got to listen to me! There's something I've got to tell you——"

"I mean to go to Reno, as soon as you let me pass."

Bellamy's eyes narrowed as if in physical pain. He threw out a hand of inarticulate protest, and let it fall in despair. Subduing a strong desire to bolt for it, Lucinda began to descend at a pace not inconsistent with dignity. At the same time sensitiveness to the situation, the feeling that they had been playing a scene of intimate domestic drama for the edification of an entire hotel, made her aware that the young man whose interest had first manifested near the elevators had followed across the foyer and was now standing at the head of the steps, over across from Bellamy.

Pushing through the door, she breathed thankfully the stinging winter air. The canopy lamps made the sidewalk bright, and she discovered her bellboy shivering by the open door of a taxicab.

Abandoning all pretense, Lucinda ran. The bellboy caught her arm to help her into the cab and chattered: "W-where t-t-to, Ma'm?" she was prevented from answering by Bel, who elbowed the boy aside and caught her by the shoulders.

"No!" he cried violently. "No, you shan't—d'you hear?—you shan't go without listening to me!"

By some means, she did not know quite how, Lucinda broke out of his hands and stepped back.

"Let me alone!" she insisted. "Let me——"

CITY'S $250,000 LOAN WILL BE COMPLETED WITHIN NEXT 30 DAYS

Negotiations for the city's $250,000 16-year loan are expected to be concluded sometime within the next 30 days, city officials report. Representatives of the banking company Wednesday completed their checking of the city's finances, and they have 30 days in which to complete the transaction.

The company's representatives were on Thursday closing up the details of the $550,000 loan which they are making to Fort Worth under conditions similar to those offered this city.

NEW STRUCTURE AT HUNT ELEVATOR TO CHALLENGE SKYSCRAPERS IN HEIGHT

Downtown office buildings are being challenged by the new head house under construction by J. C. Hunt at his grain elevator at Sixth and Michigan. The new structure will be 140 feet in height and will cut quite a dent in the city's sky line.

Rapid progress is being made on the building, which will reach its maximum height by the end of the week. It is to be completed by July 1, in time for the 1922 crop.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The Lord will take pleasure in His people: He will beautify the meek with salvation.—Psalm 149:4.

There is no beautifier of complexion or form or behavior, like the wish to scatter joy and not pain around us.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

CULLEN THOMAS ON RAILROAD OWNERSHIP.

Railroad rates under the Esch-Cummins act are based upon an estimated valuation of the railroads of something more than 18 billions of dollars.

Cullen F. Thomas, candidate for the senatorial nomination, declares that more than half of this valuation is water and that the actual value of the railroads is not more than eight million dollars. He also charges that a few families own the control of the railroads of the country.

The Times a few days ago reprinted an editorial statement from the Railway Age arguing that the valuation of the railroads for the purpose of rate making was not too large, and indeed, was not large enough. The Times also pointed out that there were 700,000 owners of stock in American railways. The Dallas News made a similar statement.

Mr. Thomas in a speech at Clarksville discussed the statement of the Dallas News and since the same statement appeared in The Times it is proper that Mr. Thomas' statement be published. He says that the statement that the stock in the railways is distributed among 700,000 owners is practically correct but is very misleading if it conveys the idea that any considerable number of these stockholders actually have anything to do with the control of the railroads. Continuing Mr. Thomas says:

"From a recent work of a leading economist I quote the following:

"'Of 628,000 stockholders in the railroads the majority is owned by 5,200 or 1.3 per cent, according to government report. These controlling shareholders own an average of 6,180 shares each, as against an average of 75 shares held by the other shareholders.

"'Of 27,000 stockholders in the New York Central twenty of them own 25 per cent of the stock. The twenty largest shareholders in Illinois Central own 41.6 per cent, in Southern railroad 37.7 per cent, in Southern Pacific 23 per cent, in Chicago & Northwestern 19.8 per cent, etc.

"'The Rockefellers, Harrimans and Huntingtons are the leading stockholders in the Union Pacific; the estates of James J. Hill, J. S. Kennedy and D. Willis James in the Great Northern and Northern Pacific. The Vanderbilts, Rockefellers and Astors are the largest securityholders in the New York Central, while Rockefeller, Frick, Stotesbury, Harkness, Widener and a few others are the legal stockholders in the Pennsylvania railway. These four railway systems constitute onequarter of the railroad mileage in the country and have aggregate assets of $5,000,000,000.

"'Ownership of a majority stock is not necessary for control. The ownership of stock in a corporation is usually so scattered that control can be obtained and held by only a small minority.'

"The same well-known authority makes the following further statement:

"'The New York Central is controlled by the Vanderbilt, Rockefeller and Astor families; the Pennsylvania by Rockefeller, Frick, Stotesbury, Widener and a few others; the Union Pacific by Rockefeller, Harriman, Kahn, Gould and a few others; the Great Northern by Hill, Morgan, Kennedy and James estates. The other railroads of the country are similarly controlled by persons of excessive fortune who are the leading stockholders.'

"I submit that this authentic testimony sustains my charge that a few families own a controlling interest in the chief railroads of the country. But my conviction is irresistible that the power of railroad control, concentrated in a few hands, has foisted this intolerable condition on the American people.

"I protest that a few families, grown wealthy beyond the dreams of avarice, shall not use the power of government, operating through the Esch-Cummins law, in order to levy tribute on the great body of shippers and consumers of this country."

VIOLENCE IN CHICAGO BUILDING STRIKE.

Chicago is facing one of those outbreaks of terrorism which have occurred too frequently in the industrial life of that city. Radical and lawless labor elements have shot down and killed officers on guard duty at construction work against which there have been strikes and have set fire to buildings under construction.

A number of labor leaders are in jail on charges of murder in connection with the killing of officers and announcement is made that drastic action will be taken. Construction work in progress under what is known as the Landis award of wages and working conditions is going ahead under virtual military law and instructions have been given to shoot trespassers.

The Landis award may or may not have been just. It does appear that the building trades in Chicago who had agreed to abide by it have broken faith. But entirely aside from this, it will be agreed by all right thinking people that murder and arson are not arguments that will win any controversy. They will serve only to blacken the names of the organizations in whose names they are committed and to weaken the influence of these organizations.

Let us hope that the authorities and the lawful elements in Chicago will not weaken in their determination to crush out this spirit of might and terrorism which by bloodshed, arson and murder is endeavor to continue its power.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MIDNIGHT.

There has always seemed to be a touch of mystery about midnight—the night clothed in great silence. I must confess, however, that I like to pass through midnight's charms to my bed for the rest that night prepares

How serenely still everything is—even in the big city.

I live at the city's edge where at midnight I am able to hear the distant rumble of late cars or an occasional taxicab—then vast quietness.

Almost all the lights of the distant apartment houses have disappeared one by one. Thousands of hands have touched electric buttons—then as many thousands of tired eyes have been placed on pillows for the watch of the stars.

I look out of my window, as I myself have just pressed the button that has brought upon darkness, and through the movement of the trees I see the stars winking their laughter to me, as though bidding me goodnight

The books have been closed, the typewriter over which my fingers have played for so many hours and years, is silent.

I push my window open a little more so that I may hear the trinkle of the spring just a little way off down the hill.

The entire house is free from noise and movement. Hours before have the other sleepers been traveling in dreams.

I smell the pungent odor of blossoming flowers and trees. There is a freshness in the air. Spring has followed winter.

Even the songsters have long ago nestled in their homes among the boughs.

The work of the day and night is over. The brain and body are both honestly tired. Now the soul must come to its play and its thoughts.

So we say to ourself and all the world—Goodnight!

JUST FOLKS

—By— Edgar A. Guest

THE BETTER MAN.

I didn't understand it then,
When I was eight or nine or ten
And little troubles came my way
My kindly father used to say:
"Sorrow must come to man and boy.
Don't cry about a broken toy,
Don't fret too much because you lose,
Don't whimper over every bruise;
Remember when they knock you flat,
You'll be a better man for that."

When I had older grown, he'd say:
"Life's not a constant round of play
And there is work for all to do
And many an irksome task for you.
The time will come when you will find
That duty often seems unkind;
You will be told to work when you
Have something else you'd rather do.
But just forget your ball and bat,
You'll be a better man for that.

"This is a lesson you must learn:
Joy is a thing which all must earn,
And it's beneath the heavy blows
That courage at its finest shows.
When you have something hard to do,
Don't quit until you've seen it through;
Though happier you would be at play,
Never from duty run away.
Then, though you sprawl on failure's mat,
You'll be a better man for that."

Now I am older grown and I
See with a somewhat clearer eye
Just what my father saw back then
In all the troubled lives of men.
Hardships are builders of the race,
Strength grows by what it has to face;
He only meets life's sternest test
Who gives the irksome task his best,
Care does what pleasure never can
In fashioning the better man.

YOU AND I

By ALBERT APPLE

HEREAFTER.

The ex-kaiser is reported to have lost all interest in European politics. His physical health is said to be good. But his friends are worried about his mental state They say his devotion to religion has become a mania.

Wilhelm is 63 years old. At that age men begin to think a lot about the hereafter

In the inferno Wilhelm will have a fine time exchanging notes with Genghis Khan, history's champion butcher, who in 12 years of conquest killed 18,500,000 Asiatics Other millions were killed in his lesser wars.

In the year 1227 he was destroyed by death, always the final victor Wilhelm fears this ultimate conqueror. There's a reason.

GENGHIS.

Genghis Khan, "greatest" military destroyer of history, established just laws among his conquered. He enforced these laws and made his empire so secure against murder, theft and adultery that unarmed strangers were able to travel without fear or danger from one end of the empire to the other

Genghis tolerated all religions, promoted education and made hospitality compulsory among his subjects

These good deeds still influence Chinese people, after 700 years His wars are forgotten, their effects erased

War is the most futile of all human devices. For every question it settles it unsettles a score of others

"DAD."

No machine shop or mill is complete without an old, white haired dinner pail carrier whom everyone calls "Dad"

In our country are 276,550 "dads"—wage earners past 60 years old Maybe some of them wish they could have saved enough in youth to enable them to spend their old age without toil

But work, like opium, is a habit The man who works until he is 60 without something to do. The system gets us all The truly "richest" old man in American probably carries a dinner pail, measuring his wealth in health and happiness, not money.

"KIDDING."

Thirsty days hath September, April, June and November. All the rest are thirsty, too, unless you make your own home brew

That parody 'got a big hand" at the spring luncheon of the Woman's Forum, New York City.

The most interesting feature of prohibition is that even its most rabid enemies take it good naturedly The "kidding" about the dry laws indicates that the nation at heart is dry. It also indicates a fundamental national respect for law, despite the joshing.

Most of the people who curse prohibition would vote dry if it came to a referendum show down.

COLOMBO.

Spain now claims that Colombo—discoverer of America and incorrectly called Columbus—was born on Spanish soil instead of Italy.

Ordonez y Garcia (Spanish minister of justice, not a cigar) is investigating documents to this effect, recently found in Galicia.

It's a useless investigation. Doesn't make any difference where Colombo was born. What counts is that a Spanish queen had intuitive sense enough to finance Colombo's trip westward over the Atlantic to prove that the earth was round, when long bearded "scientists" thought it was flat.

When they asked her how she knew, she probably answered, "Because."

Texas Viewpoints

Denton Record-Chronicle: The results in the special election in the thirteenth congressional district will give no satisfaction to those who aver that Texas democrats are being seduced into support of a protective tariff. There were three democrats and an independent—one of the kind who in these parts seem "independent" enough only to vote the republican ticket—in the race. The three democrats espoused the ancient democratic tariff principles; the independent made his principle fight on his support of "protection" for the farmers. The thirteenth district is overwhelmingly agricultural In it is but one simble city. Probably 85 per cent of the vote of the district is concerned directly or indirectly in agriculture, their prosperity of the farmers. Early tabulation of the vote shows that the independent, espousing "protection" got 8.62 per cent of the votes cast, leaving 91.38 per cent of the total for the candidates supporting the democratic faith and opposed to protection under any guise. The vote is illuminating, particularly so when it is recalled that Texas protectionists in resolutions and speeches have asserted emphatically that they represented 80 per cent of the real strength of the people. It recalls 'The Three Tailors of Tooley Street" and their essay to speak as "the people."

* *

Denton Record-Chronicle: Denton people who were privileged to hear Governor Neff's short talks at the Texas Press association meeting here were impressed, first, with his knowledge of concrete needs of Texas, and second — very many place it first—with his sincerity of purpose, his real desire to be of service to the people of Texas and his native state Put into the governor's office after a virulent campaign into which bitter, acrimonious personalities largely entered; declared a minority governor elected by voters who were at heart opposed to him except as second choice; subject of slanderous charges of slacking—in spite of all these, Governor Neff in less than two years has converted a very large number of voters, originally opposed to or apathetically supporting him, to the belief that he not only is giving to the state the best that is in him, but that in that best is a real service to the commonwealth. It was remarked not so long ago by one who had supported him as a second choice that no previous governor had given a greater effort at learning the needs of the state than this same Governor Neff. It is much easier for a state executive to sit in his office at Austin and get second-hand information about the different sections of the great state of Texas, their needs, their advantages and wherein they could be helped by the power of the state government than to go out over the state and get them himself. It is no picnic to travel over wide areas of Texas by automobile or even by train to secure first-hand knowledge of the facts Campaigning Texas is an onerous labor that is indulged in only by those seeking office or other material reward But Governor Neff, long before any opposition to him for a second term was out and reasonably secure in the knowledge that there was hardly a possibility that the second-term precedent could be overturned, went out into the remote sections of Texas to glean by personal visits the knowledge that is essential to solution of the problems before the government of Texas. He has gone by train, by auto, even by horse-drawn vehicle, and he has sought to obtain this knowledge, with dissemination of arguments in the directing of public attention toward the needs of Texas and building up of sentiment for their satisfaction as a secondary matter. Given the knowledge of existing needs, there is hope for the supplying thereof. Governor Neff has gone out into the highways and byways seeking ascertainment of what Texas needs to become actually what it already is potentially—the greatest state in the union. And now, as he told his 3,500 hearers here the other night, he is at work on a program of construction, a far-visioning, permanent plan, for the removal or correction of disadvantages, for the correlation and coordination of the great natural advantages, resources and assets of this great state, for the beginning of the march toward that goal every citizen desires and the way to which Governor Neff is now diligently seeking. Governor Neff is committed to the basic idea of economy. There was never a time when economy—government and individual—was more necessary to the speedy rehabilitation of the world than now. But those who have heard the governor briefly outline his views and his plans are quite convinced that his will be no "ox-cart economy," no saving at the spigot to waste at the bunghole, no skimping in permanent investment to make a showing now and incur a huge capital loss in future Governor Neff promised that the details of his constructive program would be submitted to the people of Texas during the summer. Those details are awaited with interest and the skeleton of them, as given in addresses over the state, gives rise to the confident belief that they will be of such nature as will draw to them the support of a very great majority of forward-looking Texas people concerned in the permanent advancement of their state

Vital Statistics

By DR. R. H. BISHOP.

Vital statistics are well named. They are vital to the life and health of every community.

Were it not for vital statistics, public health officials would not know whether they were gaining or losing in the struggle against death, disease and ignorance.

No business man fails to keep accurate record of accounts, so that he can determine at any time whether he is gaining or losing. It is the same in the great business of life. Every birth must be recorded; every marriage, every death. So, too, must certain contagious diseases.

Records of births, marriages, deaths and infectious diseases are of great value to health officers, to others doing social work and to doctors and scientists in studying and preventing unnecessary sickness and death

When physicians' reports show a disease like typhoid increasing, steps can be taken immediately to find the source of infection.

Every birth should be recorded, not only because it is the child's right, but also to enable accurate account to be kept of the causes of infant deaths. Great progress has been made in recent years in saving the lives of new-born children This was made possible in part because statistics showed the causes of illness and the extent to which it was occurring.

ROTARY CHARTER TO BE PRESENTED AT ELECTRA FRIDAY

Organization of the second Rotary club for this county will be perfected Friday, when the Electra club will be presented with the charter that typifies its admission to the international organization.

About 30 Wichita Falls Rotarians, headed by Horrace Robbins, who will be the personal representative of District Governor George Holmgreen, will attend the ceremony, which will be held at noon. Announcement of the plans was made at the local Rotary club's luncheon at the Kemp Thursday.

H. H. Bray was the classification speaker at Thursday's luncheon and told of some of the problems of the builders' supply business in which he is engaged.

B. J. Bass, one of several Rotarians who spoke Wednesday in connection with the "back-to-school" campaign the club is conducting, made a report on that activity. Agricultural Commissioner George B. Terrell of Austin also spoke briefly, giving some facts and figures on the agricultural greatness of Texas, and uttering some words of praise for Wichita Falls.

The official song for the coming international convention of Rotary clubs at Los Angeles was sung by R. E. Shepherd, with Mrs. Shepherd as accompanist. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan, from the Wichita theater vaudeville company, sang several very pleasing selections.

ROTARY DIRECTORS VOTE TO START STUDENTS' LOAN FUND

A loan fund to help deserving young men and women attend higher educational institutions will be established by the Rotary club this year, it was decided Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the directors of the club. The fund will be started out of the club treasury, and will be used to aid one or two local students who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity.

EXPECT TO DENY THE REQUEST OF CATTLE MEN

FORT WORTH, May 18.—Request of south Texas cattle men that big steers be eliminated from systematic dipping for ticks in zone three until August 1 will probably be denied by the livestock sanitary commission, it was stated here today by attorneys for the commission. The argument against granting the plea is that such action, in extending favor to one class of livestock, would disrupt the entire system of dipping.

435 PUPILS MAKE PERFECT SCORE IN SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

Four hundred and thirty-five awards in the form of appropriately engraved certificates will be presented public school students in this city Friday in recognition of their records of not having been absent or tardy a single time during the nine month school period just closing.

The certificates will be signed by Superintendent of Schools Clark, the principal of the school in which the record was made and by the teacher. Presentations will be made by the instructors at the final ward school classes Friday, at which time reports and passing cards will be given out.

School officials consider a total of 435 perfect attendance records out of the 5,000 enrollment, one to be proud of.

ANOTHER MAXIMUM FINE ASSESSED ON VAGRANCY CHARGE

The second and third heavy vagrancy fines to be meted out in the city police court were recorded Wednesday night and Thursday morning when Harry Maunders and Jonnie Reynolds, arrested recently on vag charges, were fined $200 and $100, respectively. The Maunders case was tried before a jury Wednesday night and the maximum penalty allowed by law returned after a deliberation of but three minutes.

Reynolds appeared before Judge Chauncey Thursday morning and was found guilty on the charge alleged in the complaint. Both cases were appealed by counsel representing the defendants.

The two fines assessed bring the total to be collected on such charges to well over $500 in this week alone. One defendant was found guilty and fined $200 Tuesday afternoon while numerous smaller amounts have been charged to defendants appearing on vag charges for the first time. J. Hoffman drew a $25 penalty Thursday morning when found guilty by Judge Chauncey on such a charge.

HILARITY TO MARK CLASS EERCISES OF SENIOR PUPILS

"The calm before the storm" was the expression used by one high school senior Thursday in commenting on senior class night, an elaborate program for which has been arranged and which will be given at the high school auditorium Thursday night. The festivities will be the last official observance of the class before commencement exercises at the Wichita theater Friday night.

Hilarity that knows no bounds has always been the standing rule for senior class nights, and this year promises to be no exception. The conferring of the senior mantle on the juniors, said ceremony accompanied by various and sundry "bequeaths" to next year's seniors, will be the chief event of the evening.

Other numbers of the program will be two piano solos, one by Lucille Benson and the other by Jo Betsy Miller, a reading by Helen Snider, a vocal solo by Dorothy Ellis, class songs by all the seniors, a cowboy scene by Ebon Keith and numerous impromptu perorations that will doubtless break forth.

School officials were working Thursday on the commencement program for Friday night but were unable to announce the full list of speakers. The senior scholarship winners are not yet known.

Judge W. F. Ramsey of Dallas, who is to be the principal speaker will arrive Friday afternoon.

PROF. CLARK INVITED TO DELIVER GRADUATING ADDRESS AT TULIA, TEXAS

An invitation to deliver the commencement address to the Tulia, Texas, high school graduating class on May 26 was received Thursday morning by Lee Clark, superintendent of the local school system. The invitation came by telegraph early in the day from the Tulia school superintendent.

Superintendent Clark indicated that he would accept the invitation.

The Tulia school system has been considerably enlarged during the past year, according to reports here, and with the addition of several new buildings its becomes one of the most complete educational organizations in the panhandle.

Mrs. H. F. Kelleher left Wednesday for Philadelphia, Pa., to visit her mother. They will both leave shortly for Atlantic City, where they will spend the summer.

WICHITA HIGH OFF FOR THE PANHANDLE

Red and Black Ball Tossers In 3-Game Series With Amarillo Scholastics.

Though handicapped by the loss of Haney, Clark and Brashear, Coach Henderson was most optimistic when he and his Red and Black ball tossers hopped the rattler Thursday for Amarillo where the two schools will wage battle for three days to determine the scholastic baseball title of north Texas.

The local squad is winding up one of the most successful seasons in its history and should the boys emerge victorious in the three game series they will undoubtedly be called upon to defend this section of the state in the state finals. It was reported some time ago that Golden Tornados of Amarillo were in the finals, but Coach Henderson took exception to that statement and sent them a challenge which was immediately accepted.

The Red and Black has not lost a regulation scholastic contest this season, while the Tornados have suffered several defeats. The locals' claim to the title of this section is every bit as well founded as that of Amarillo and the winner of this series is confidently expected to enter the finals.

Bourland and Harris will have to bear the brunt of the hurling since Brashear has left Wichita Falls while the absence of Haney and Clark, both of whom have hit over .500 this year, will be keenly felt. The following players made the trip: Harris, Bourland, Neal, Crites, Kenley, Ross Bashara, Roberts, Kizziar and Baldwin.

CONTRACTORS' CALL FOR LABOR BRINGS HEARTY RESPONSE

A call from contractors at the irrigation dam for 60 laborers Thursday morning was not long unanswered, for a query to the employment bureau recently installed by the police department elicited information that workmen could be supplied in any quantity on short notice.

The full quota was present early Thursday when representatives of the contractors appeared at the station, and the entire crew set out for the dam site before the sun was many hours high.

Police officials maintaining the new employment bureau reported Thursday that applicants for work were still coming in and that places had been found for a few.

SAYS MAN WHO FOUND FUR HAD BETTER BRING IT BACK

A valuable fur piece, lost last Saturday by Mrs. George W. Thorburn at the corner of Indiana and Tenth streets, may get a local delivery man into trouble if it is not returned promptly to the city hall according to City Detective Jack Miller who reported Thursday morning that the finder of the fur was known.

The article in question dropped from Mrs. Thorburn's automobile and was immediately picked up by a man driving a Ford delivery truck. Belief that it would be returned by the finder prevented police action at first, but the fur has not been forthcoming and Detective Miller is advising prompt action in the matter.

Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills

CALOMEL GOOD BUT AWFUL TREACHEROUS

Next Dose May Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Bones

You know what calomel is. It's mercury, quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day, it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate. (adv)

Spudders Have Two Big Innings and Mop Up On Bears in Opening Game

By PAUL W. LARKIN.

Aided by splendid pitching on the part of Hub Perdue and timely extra base wallops by Tex McDonald and "Shorty" Adams, the Spudders tore into Hugh Northern's San Antonio Bears Wednesday afternoon at Athletic park and won handily by the count of 9 to 3. Though each team was limited to eight safe smashes, it was a game replete with free style hitting, the visitors collecting a brace of homers and the home club a circuit smash, triple and double. The Spudders, however, showed greater skill in bunching their blows, garnering five of them in two big innings in which they counted eight times.

Perdue was opposed on the hill by one Larry Cheney who, after getting away to a poor start in the first chapter, pitched fairly good ball. A rank error in the seventh with an easy double play in sight hurt him considerably. Had McKee upheld his end of the play as middle man, the side would have been retired before any damage was done. But he didn't and there you are. Five runs followed and the game went "blooey."

Perdue kept his hits well scattered and was master of the situation at all times. Unexpected round trip blows by Kirkham in the second and Cheney in the seventh kept the visitors in the game until the last of the seventh, but they were not headed at any stage of the encounter.

The Spudedrs jumped on Cheney in the first canto for three runs and gave Perdue a sufficient margin to work on. With one down, Summa doubled over Booe's head in left. It was the first of three drives collected during the afternoon by Homer. Adams inveigled Cheney into throwing him four wide ones. McDonald then leaned on one with sufficient force to belt it out of the yard via right field and the three runners cantered around all the corners. The next two hitters were easy outs.

Kirkham Poles One.

Kirkham, first up for the Bears in the next chapter, duplicated McDonald's stunt of the previous period, slamming one of Perdue's offerings over the right field wall.

This ended the scoring until the fifth when Bob Bescher broke into the limelight with a muff which put the Bears in a position to score their second counter. One man was out and McKee had walked when Cheney lofted to Bob. The latter allowed it to hop out of his hands, and both runners were safe. Booe tried to find out if Bescher's bobble was a fluke and sent another one to him. Bob held this one, however. Gross came through with the inevitable base hit which follows an error and McKee scored, but Hiller was taken care of by Miller.

The Spudders passed up a beautiful chance to tally some more in the sixth. With one away, McKee dropped McDonald's fly in front of the plate. Miller poked a pretty hit through second on the hit and run and McDonald reached third. Beck hit to Fuller who threw to the plate in time to head off Tex. The latter saw his predicament and scooted back to third. He and Miller reached the bag at practically the same time, but Jake was a little behind him. With one fell swoop, Hiller tagged McDonald and reached over and touched Miller as he was coming into the bag, getting two birds with one stone.

Cheney's home to home clout put the visitors on even terms with the Spudders in the seventh. It was a prodigious wallop which sailed over the left field barried and would count for four bases in any park. They didn't remain on even terms with the home boys long, however, as the Spudders came back with a rush in their allotment of the chapter and put the game on ice.

The Lucky Seventh.

White started the festivities with a single to left center and Bischoff drew a pass. The Spudders got a break here when Cheney foozled Perduce's sacrifice long enough to permit the runners to advance, though he got Hub at first. Bescher worried Cheney into handing him four wide ones, filling the bases. Summa cracked one at Hiller who threw to McKee. The latter in his anxiety to complete the double play, let the sphere get away from him and all hands were safe. "Shorty" Adams was due for his daily hit and he didn't fail. It was a line triple to the right field corner of the lot which relieved the congestion on the paths and gave the Salmites their much needed victory. Adams counted a moment later on McDonald's tap in front of the plate. He made a pretty slide under McKee at the plate for the counter. This ended the scoring for the period though Miller followed with an infield hit which sent Texas to third, the latter reaching that station by fast base running. Beck and White both flied out.

The last Spudder counted in the eighth was the result of a pass to Bischoff, Perdue's sacrifice, Bischoff's steal of third and Summa's third safe hit.

The invaders started a feeble rally in the ninth, but couldn't score. They gathered a single and double, but Perdue got two pinch hitters on strikes and forced Booe to loft to Summa.

The Spudders blanked the Bears with Marshall on the hill, 8 to 0. It was the second shutout victory scored by the Salmites in three days. A single by Clark put the game on ice.

Earl Smith won a game for the Giants with a home run in the ninth.

Elmer Smith's circuit smash was the principal factor in the Indians' 4 to 2 victory over the Athletics.

A round trip blow by "Irish" Meusel of the Phillies gave his club a win over the Cards.

Detroit pulled a triple play, but lost to the Red Sox.

"Lefty" Johns shut out the Exporters, allowing only three hits.

THE DERBY FINISH!

This shows the finish of the Kentucky Derby, run at Louisville May 13, in which Morvich, Benjamin Block's king of turfdom, won by a length and a half over Bet Mosie, E. R. Bradley's star. Bet Mosie is shown just a nose ahead of John Finn, the Col R. F. Baker entry that finished third. Below is Benjamin Block, owner of Morvich, and Jockey Albert Johnson, who rode the winner, and to whom Block gave $10,000 out of the $53,175 the race netted him.

KEN WILLIAMS GOT CONFIDENCE FROM FELLOW PLAYERS

By KEN WILLIAMS.

My teammates on the St. Louis American league club deserve the credit for any honors I may hang up as a home run hitter.

WILLIAMS.

The confidence of my team mates in my ability to hit home runs inspired me to go out and try to do the things they insisted I could.

Early in the spring of 1921 I was seated on the Browns' bench at St. Louis with a number of other players. We were discussing Babe Ruth and the things he was doing at the bat. Suddenly the conversation switched from Ruth to yours truly. My team mates began telling me what a chase they would give Ruth if able to take a healthy swing, as I did.

Made to Order.

"This fence here is made to order for you," remarked one of the players. He had reference to the right field bleachers in St. Louis. Since I am a left handed hitter he figured that would be an ideal spot for me to shoot at.

"You ought to be able to pull 15 or 20 balls into the right field bleachers ewery year," remarked another player.

Ought to Pray.

"Any time a pitcher gets a ball on the inside to you he ought to say a prayer. You ought to whale away with a full swing on any of those babies on the inside. If you did, you would have many a pitcher in trouble."

Well, all that dope the boys were slipping me that afternoon got me to thinking.

They Meant It.

At first I thought maybe they were just kidding me. The more I thought of it, the more I was convinced they were in earnest.

They all seemed to think I was a much better hitter than I thought I was. I kept thinking it all over and decided I would try to give Ruth a chase.

While I never made him very uncomfortable, still I was the runner-up practically all last season.

ELEVEN PLAYERS ON PORTLAND CLUB ARE EX-SERVICE MEN

PORTLAND, ORE., May 17.—Portland claims for its Pacific Coast league team the distinction of having the greatest number of world war veterans as players of any professional ball club in the country.

In celebration of this fact, special American legion exercises were planned at the Portland baseball park on Sunday, May 6, including the initiation of all the eleven ball-playing ex-service men into the legion, playing by an overseas veterans' band, and a big flag raising.

Portland's ex-service ball players are:

Tom Turner, coach and assistant manager, major 11th infantry, 3d division; Joe Sargent, 123d machine gun battalion; LeRoy Gressett, outfielder, field hospital No. 1; Harvey Freeman, pitcher, 54th railway engineers; Harold (Rowdy) Elliott, catcher, storeroom keeper on U. S. S. Ringgold; Dick Cox, outfielder, 31st infantry; Charles High, outfielder, 148th aviation squadron; "Rip"

MADE FOUR HOME RUNS YET HIS CLUB LOST

Old time fans, discussing baseball that was played in "Pop" Anson's day, are telling of the wonderful feat of Ed Delehanty, another one of the old boys, back in 1887. That was Anson's last year as manager of the White Stockings he helped make famous.

In the game talked of Ed, playing with the Phillies, collected five hits in five times up and four of them were home runs. And according to the dope Ed dropped them into all corners of the lot. The first hit—a homer—went into the bleachers in left. The second blow, another circuit smash, traveled to right field. Then he weakened and poked out the single. His next smash, a homer, went center field way and his last hit and home run went back to left.

"Adonis" Bill Terry pitched for the Chicago club. It's interesting to know that the Phillies lost the game, 3 to 6.

WALTER MAILS FINDS JINX IN DETROIT CLUB

Detroit is the jinx team of the American league for Pitcher Walter Mails of the Cleveland club. Not since his entry into the American league has Mails been able to turn in a victory against the Tigers.

The experience that Mails has had against the Tigers is very similar to that of Cy Morgan when he pitched for the Philadelphia Athletics, in the days when Mack's clubs were winning pennants.

Morgan, a very effective spitball pitcher, simply couldn't win against that old slugging aggregation of Cobb, Crawford and company.

MARATHON RUNNER STAGES A REMARKABLE COMEBACK

One of the most remarkable comebacks ever staged in the athletic world was that of Clarence De Mar, winner of the Boston Marathon, who effectually disproved the statement that "they never come back" by not only coming back after a lay-off of eleven years but who established a new record over the long marathon course after his long period of absence from the track.

Eleven years ago the nimble legs and tough lungs of Clarence De Mar carried him to victory in the annual American marathon in Boston. A few weeks ago De Mar led the field to the tape again. And his comeback was doubly remarkable in that he set a new record of 2 hours, 18 minutes and 10 seconds for the 26 miles. It was three and a half minutes faster than De Mar's time eleven years ago.

By BILLY EVANS

Who are the greatest players in the past 40 years?

No one could possibly answer that question better than Connie Mack, famous manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Connie has been in the national pastime so many years, as player and manager, that he is a link between the old era and the present period.

Mack's all-star team for the past 40 years includes six players from the American league and four from the National. Here is the way Connie sizes up the players on his team:

"Ewing is the best all-around catcher I ever saw. Other catchers have outshone him in certain departments. He was a great player in every respect—brains, batting, fielding and judgment.

Three Great Players.

"Mike Kelly was the brainiest catcher that ever lived and Charley Bennett the best receiver, while for grace alone, Tom Daly.

"It is difficult to draw the line in pitching, with so many great pitchers to consider.

"Mathewson is the man I would pick. He had a great curve ball, plenty of speed, courage, control and a knowledge of how to pitch to every batter. He was what we call a smart pitcher.

Left-Hand Stars.

"Waddell was the best left hander. I mean the greatest as far as actual ability was concerned. If it came to a question, though, of Rube or Eddie Plank on my club, I would have taken Plank.

"Sisler for first base. A year ago I might have selected Hal Chase. There never will be a better fielder than Chase, but Sisler is great at everything.

"Give me Eddie Collins for my second baseman. There is a great ball player. Lajoie was the most graceful second baseman I ever saw and a great one. Taking all things into consideration, however, Collins has the shade.

"Wagner for shortstop. In the old days Herman Long and Hughie Jennings were stars. We have some remarkable shortstops inboth major leagues today. However, all things considered I like Wagnerbest.

Collins a Wonder.

"I would pick Jimmy Collins far and away above everybody else for third base. He was a wonder. He plays to first or second, make quick plays to first or second, hit well and was always playing for his ball club, not Collins. He getamy vote as the best third baseman that ever put on a glove.

"In the outfield, Clarke, Speaker and Cobb. It would be impossible to get together a stronger trio.

"Clarke used uncanny judgment in playing his batters. Speaker covers more ground than any man I ever watched play the outfield. It is useless to say anything about Cobb, he is in a class by himself as a ball player."

There you have Connie Mack's greatest ball team of all time.

Danny Frush Suspended.

BATTLE CREEK, MICH., May 18.—Suspension for one year of Danny Frush of Baltimore and Johnny Reisler of New York, featherweight boxers, was announced here yesterday by Thomas W. Bigger, state boxing commissioner. The commissioner added that recommendation will be made that they be barred from ring events in all states where there is legalized boxing.

LIGHT-SIX

Your satisfaction with a car depends upon your satisfaction with its performance, appearance, economy, comfort and price.

These are the vital points. And you must get satisfaction in each one if you are to be satisfied with your car as a whole.

Consider the LIGHT-SIX from this angle.

It is essentially the same car as it was when introduced. It was right before it was offered. And it has made good in the service of thousands and thousands of owners. It is dependable. Its L-head motor is powerful, flexible and freer from vibration than any car at anywhere near its price.

Its graceful lines are enhanced by a lasting finish. Cowl parking lights and the cowl ventilator not only add to its good looks but are necessary for complete satisfaction.

The LIGHT-SIX stands up in service with a minimum of repair expense. This, with low fuel consumption, means satisfactory economy.

We never heard of a LIGHT-SIX that was not comfortable to ride in.

And the price, $1045 f. o. b. factory, is out of proportion to its value. This price includes the thief-proof transmission lock which reduces the rate of theft insurance to the owner 15 to 20 per cent; large plate glass window in one-piece rear curtain, inside and outside door handles and other refinements.

And you get the priceless ingredient—prestige and high standing of the maker—who for 70 years has been building quality vehicles and selling them at fair prices.

Thief-proof transmission lock reduces rate of insurance to LIGHT-SIX owners 15 to 20%

Touring, $1045; 3-Passenger Roadster, $1045; Coupe-Roadster, $1375; Sedan, $1750. All prices f. o. b. factory.

ALL THE NEWS OF ALL THE SPORTS

SPORT SHOTS by Paul W. Barkin

May Rival Oldfield.

Homer Summa bought a flivver Wednesday and then proceeded to swell his batting average by collecting three hits.

Many Unusual Plays.

Athletic park is the scene of unusual plays quite frequently nowadays. In addition to the two runs made without a homer on the first four balls pitched recently, the three batsmen who were hit by pitched balls in succession, O'Brien's "goal from field" which resulted in a circuit smash, an unusual double play was turned in Wednesday.

Adams and Triples.

"Shorty" Adams must be out after a three-base hit record. Hack Eibel led the league last year with 13, while Adams already has seven to his credit and shows no signs of letting up. The triple is one of the drives that has not kept pace with the other extra-base clouts in this era of terrific slugging. Not so long ago, the player who piled up the most three baggers was considered the slugger of the team. But look at the records of 1921. Eibel cracked out 25 home runs in comparison with his 13 triples. In the American league, Shanks of Washington led with 19 triples, yet Babe Ruth crashed out more than twice as many circuit smashes. Hornsby and Powell made 13 apiece in the National while George Kelly socked out 23 homers.

Fincher Happy Now.

Bill Fincher is tickled over the prospects of pitching for Wichita Falls. He claims he has wanted to play here for two years. A satisfied ball player is a tremendous asset to a club.

Summa Meets Playmate.

Harvey Hiller, Santone third baseman, and Homer Summa were playmates on the Rochester club last season.

Tigers and Athletics.

How those Tigers and Athletics are traveling! Cobb was known to have a bunch of latent talent on his roster but the most optimistic didn't dare to think that he'd be putting up the battle he is. And as for the Athletics, their showing to date has been the one big surprise of the majors. They can talk about their Yankee wrecking crew, but Connie's sluggers are showing them all where to head in.

Rain Helped.

Maybe that rain here Tuesday was a life saver. Kraft was due to work and if he turned in a game similar to the one he hurled against the Cats, the Spudders would have been out of luck. A one-hit game is extremely hard to take in Fort Worth—when the opposing hurler is responsible.

May Change Scoring.

The system of determining the winning and losing hurlers in the major leagues has come in for considerable discussion of late, and a radical change is looked for in the near future. Heretofore, the decision as to which pitcher will be charged with the loss of the game or the victory in cases where two or more twirlers work in one game for the same club has rested with the official scorer. There have been no set rules and baseball writers and sport writers have been called upon frequently to settle arguments. For instance, in a recent game between the Tigers and Browns, Danforth started the game for the latter. The Tigers scored one run in the first and Danforth's mates got three in their portion of the session. Danforth went back in the second, but was wild and was jerked before a man had been retired. Kolp relieved him and did not permit a score in that round, though he eventually was scored on. The Browns also score again and won the game. The official scorer, however, credited Kolp with the victory, figuring that if Danforth had remained on the hill the Browns would have lost.

Texas League System.

The system in the Texas league is altogether different and is much more just, though a pitcher should never be rated solely by the number of games he has won and lost. In the Texas league, a hurler who is jerked while his club is ahead receives credit for the win, providing the tying runs were not left on the bags when he went out and that the runners did not score. The same applies to the loss of a game. If a pitcher is taken out while his club is behind, he is charged with the defeat no matter how many morer uns the opposition may score, unless the game has been tied up in the meantime. Should the game be tied, the relieving pitcher is charged with the loss or the defeat according to the result of the game.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE

University 11, Methodists 8.

The University club didn't wait for a thing Wednesday afternoon in its Twilight league game with the Methodists, but tore into Bourland in the first chapters and tallied nine times before the third man was out, winning by the score of 11 to 8. The slugging of Highfill for the winners was the feature. The box score:

VANDERLIP REPORTS MOST CENTRAL BANKS IN EUROPE INSOLVENT

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Most central banks in Europe are today in "varying degree of insolvency," Frank A Vanderlip, New York banker, declared in a cable review of the Genoa conference, sent to the annual convention of the chamber of comherce of the United States The plan for a conference of such banks therefore promised little of immediate result, he added, and their proposed cooperation in the solution of Europe's financial difficulties would "be difficult to realize."

Describing the Genoa conference as a "clinic which was circumscribed in the type of "diseases" which it might discuss, Mr. Vanderlip recommended that the United States enter the proposed London financial meeting, but only with an understanding that our federal reserve system be kept free from alien commitments He commended the Washington government for the attitude it had maintained toward Europe and said the chamber should refrain from embarrassing it by suggestion

CHATS WITH REX BEACH About the Great Out-of-Doors

By MORRIS ACKERMAN

Rex Beach has some decided ideas about the hunting art that he has gathered unto himself during many years as a devotee of this sport. Some of these may be interesting to you.

"Snow trailing in Canada after moose, deer and caribou is my idea of real sport. I could never enthuse much over killing a moose during the calling season, nor am I strong for water hunting these splendid animals."

"After all, while I naturally like to get what I go after, a great deal of pleasure in any kind of a fishing or hunting trip is anticipation. If this problem were eliminated from the sport it would be uninteresting. With me the harder the going the better the fun, for when you look back on those experiences it is the 'easy' trip that loses itself first from your memory.

"There is a big difference between field and trap shooting. In quail shooting for instance, every bird is fired at from a different angle, at varying distances and speeds. No two birds offer you the same sort of shot.

"At the traps, targets are thrown pretty much from the same angles and at the same speeds. An expert trapshot attains mechanical perfection and masters his game quicker than the man in the field.

"The most enjoyable trip I ever made was with my brother-in-law, Fred Stone, cougar hunting in Arizona. We had splendid weather, a smart pack of dogs, good horses and guides. That was three weeks of splendid sport. We had one dog in the pack that had been in on the killing of more than 600 of those animals."

I asked Mr. Beach what he thought about the possibility of the cougar becoming extinct in America. He said he thought it hardly possible, but that the natives and government hunters were trying hard to "keep them down" due to their cattle and sheep killing proclivities.

While quail are plentiful in most of the southern states he says the best hunting today is to be found in Arkansas and Mississippi. His favorite shotgun is the automatic.

Marriage of One Woman to Another Brought to Light

DES MOINES, IOWA, May 18.—A remarkable story of a woman's impersonation of a man and her "marriage" to another woman came to light here yesterday with the arrest of Mrs. Irene Gaul, who was the "husband" in the case.

Her arrest came about following an altercation with her "wife," Mrs. Janette Simmons. According to the story told to the police by "husband" Gaul, the two women have lived together as man and wife for more than a year and a half.

Mrs. Gaul says she came to Des Moines two years ago from Chicago dressed as a man. She obtained work as a cook in a local restaurant. Following a short courtship Mrs. Gaul says she "married" Mrs. Simmons. Mrs. Simmons says she discovered that her "husband" was a woman three weeks after the "marriage." She says she feared to reveal to any one the fact that she had married a woman.

THE MARKETS

COTTON—GRAIN—FINANCIAL—LIVESTOCK—PRODUCE

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, May 18.—The cotton market opened at an advance of 8 points on May, which was influenced by reports of a continued good spot demand but generally 2 to 13 points lower under commission house realizing or scattering local and southern selling. There were reports of rather heavy rains in eastern belt sections and one of the early wires said there had been damage by hail storms in extreme southern Texas, but the bulk of the rain news came from east of the river and there was some selling on expectations of improving conditions in the west. Trade interests were buying on the decline, however, and after selling off to 21.13 for May and 20.09 for October, or about 8 to 14 points net lower the market was fairly steady. Liverpool was lower under liquidation, but reported a good trade demand and a better inquiry for Egyptian cotton.

Trading was not active but prices held generally steady to firm later on Liverpool buying, covering by July shorts and a scattering demand from commission houses or trade sources. There was buying on the eastern belt rains and reports of a good spot demand in the south. The latter was said to be mostly for export but eastern spinners were beginning to show a little more interest in raw material supplies. July contracts sold up to 20.54 and October to 20.35, or about 17 or 18 points net higher. The forecast was for generally fair weather in the western belt.

May held very steady around 21.51, or about 14 points net higher, during the early afternoon, but later months were easier on the better weather advices, July selling at 20.30, or only 3 points above yesterday's close.

Cotton closed steady.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, May 18.—Poor cables caused enough selling on the opening of the cotton market today to put prices 2 to 9 points under the close of yesterday, July dropping to 19.88, but support was offered at the decline and the market turned very steady. Buying increased after the posting of the weather map, the barometer lines on which were accepted by the trade as threatening more rain for Texas. At the end of the first hour prices were 8 to 17 points higher than the close of yesterday, with July up to 20.07.

Heavy buying of July spot interests helped to put that position to the new high level of 20.22, where the list showed net gains of 17 to 33 points. At 11 o'clock prices were about 10 to 20 points off from the highest under realizing.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 18.—Another active day in copper and steel shares was foreshadowed at the opening of today's stock market. Gains ranging from large fractions to 1½ points were made by a number of the metal issues. Inspiration Copper excepted. Among steels, Midvale, yesterday's spectacular feature, opened with a transfer of 4,000 shares at a quotation unchanged from yesterday's final price, but the stock soon declined 1 point. Crucible, Replogle and Vanadium rose 1 to 2 points, and Sloss-Sheffield, Lackawanna and Iron products gained substantial fractions. Studebaker, Royal Dutch, Industrial Alcohol, Sears Roebuck and Sumatra Tobacco also displayed firmness.

The closing was strong. Sales approximated 1,400,000 shares.

Isolated points of weakness cropped out, Midvale and Republic Steels, Virginia-Carolina and American Agricultural Chemicals preferred, Retail Stores, New York Air Brake and Maxwell Motor A losing 1 to 2 points. These recessions had a restrictive effect o nthe general buying movement but many selected shares continued to work upward. Davison Chemical, American Linseed, Atlantic Gulf, Liggett and Myers and the leathers scored gains of 1 to 3 points.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, May 18.—With cold and wet weather prevailing and regarded as likely to improve the condition of the winter crop and the spring crop as well the wheat market averaged a little lower in price today during the early trading. The opening, which varied from ¼c lower to ¼c advance with May $1 45¾ and July $1 27 to $1.27¼ was followed by a slight upturn and then by a moderate general decline.

Toward the end of the session pit speculators became rather aggressive in selling. Increased weakness of May affected the new crop deliveries. The close was unsettled, ¼c to 4 cents net lower with May $1.41¾ to $1.42 and July $1.26½ to $1.26¾.

Rains causing delay to planting of corn tended to steady the market for corn and oats. After opening unchanged to ¼c higher, July 65⅝c, corn hardened a trifle and then underwent a slight sag.

Shipping demand here was slow. The close was easy at ½ to ¾c net decline with July 64¼ to 64½c.

Oats started ¼c off to a like advance, July 40 to 40¼c, then kept close to the initial range.

Provisions were steady.

CUT SHORT EFFORT TO ATTACK DESIRABILITY OF MERCHANT MARINE

ST. LOUIS, MO., May 18.—An effort to attack the desirability of the merchant marine act by C. E. Topping of Kansas City, secretary of the southwestern millers' league, was cut short today by Chairman Frederick I. Thompson of the subcommittee of the shipping board which is touring the country to determine the attitude of shippers on that section of the act relating to preferential rates to seaboard for exporters who use American ships.

The southwestern millers' league is composed of flour millers in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas, and Clorado. Mr. Topping told the sub-committee that the difference between the export rate which they would enjoy if they used American bottoms and the domestic rate which they would have to pay if they exported in foreign ships would vary from six to 19½ cents per 100 pounds.

ALL STEEL TRAIN BETWEEN DENVER AND FORT WORTH

An all steel train between Fort Worth and Denver with a greatly reduced time schedule will be one of the accomplishments of the Fort Worth and Denver City Railroad company this summer. A large amount of new equipment is in the making but no delivery dates have been received at the local offices.

In addition to the all steel train, every piece of passenger train equipment is being sent to the shops and steel under frames are being installed on all pieces. According to railroad men this will make the cars practically as safe as the all steel cars.

With the installation of the steel under frames all other modern equipment is also being used. The gas lights, heretofore used will be supplanted by an electric light system for each coach and car.

Included in the new equipment which has been ordered and is in the making is: Six 70-foot steel baggage coaches; six 70-foot steel combination mail and passenger coaches; four 70-foot steel passenger coaches; one steel diner and two new, three wheel drive engines of the same model now in use. A large amount of freight train equipment has also been ordered.

Although the new time schedules will go into effect on June 1, have not been announced, the railroad management states that beginning June 1 the following Pullman cars will leave points designated: One will leave Fort Worth for Colorado Springs; one from San Antonio over the M. K. & T. to Denver and another from New Orleans to Denver over the T. & P. to Fort Worth. These Pullman cars will be in addition to the two regularly carried.

From the number of inquiries received it is indicated that the summer tourist traffic will be exceedingly heavy this year and all preparations are being made to afford suitable and adequate accommodations.

FORTY MINUTES IS CUT OFF RUNNING TIME KATY TRAINS

An average of forty minutes has been cut off the running time schedule of all passenger trains on the Dennison division of the M. K. & T. and similar changes have been made on the main line in order that good connections will be made.

Train No. 43 will leave Denison at 8:35 a. m., arriving Wichita Falls 10:55 a. m. instead of 11:15 as heretofore.

Train No. 44 will leave Wichita Falls at 6:45 p. m., instead of 8:15 p. m., arriving at Denison 11:50 p. m.

Train No. 45 will leave Dallas at 11:15 p. m., arriving here at 6:15 a. m., instead of 6:50 a. m.

Train No. 46 leaving Wichita Falls at 6:15 a. m., instead of 8:30 a. m., will arrive in Dallas at 1:40 p. m.

Train No. 48 which will now leave Wichita Falls at 11:30 p. m., instead of 11:00 will arrive at Dallas at 7:45 a. m.

HOME-MADE COMEDY GIVEN BY SENIOR CLASS ENJOYED HEARTILY BY BIG AUDIENCE

Last minute efforts on the part of high school seniors brought out an overflow crowd for the class play "The Lucky Dog," presented Wednesday night at the Wichita theatre and as a result the graduates of 1922 stand to finish up their prep school work without financial embarrassment.

The program itself as presented Wednesday was one that held the crowd in its seats until the final curtain. Not content with having written, rehearsed and staged, a farcical three act comedy that made up in spirit what it lacked in professional finish, the youthful entertainers also provided a wide assortment of musical numbers, some humorous dialect readings and a charming pantomime, the whole constituting a program more than worthy of the large patronage it received.

"The Lucky Dog," written by Gage McDermott with assistance from Polly Clark and Edward Kadane, turned out to be fast moving drama with high finance, intriguing villians, sundry love affairs and other sub-plots that are usually found in a production of similar type. The three authors carried the leading parts, the first two as aspiring young social climbers with limited bank rolls but with the ability to fall in love, while Mr. Kadane carried the part of "Skyrock," a Jew money lender who gets the hero into all kinds of trouble but eventually flounders around in his own water himself.

Miss Mary Smith, Miss Katherine Hopper and Miss Lillian Randle appeared in the leading feminine roles and gave most creditable performances, none the less pronounced because of their natural attractiveness. Miss Helen Snider was the only other girl to appear in the play and her work, while confined to a few minutes' time on the stage, was pleasing.

Mortimer Clopton and Wallace Bright as the dapper villains who plotted the death of the hero furnished much of the humor of the evening. The makeup of each was sufficient in itself to inspire hilarity but the two actors did not rely on this alone.

Others appearing in the cast were Barton Perry, whose interpretation of a stuttering office boy was really the best bit of acting in the play, Darrel Kahn, Robert McAbee, James Sommerville, Carroll Johnson and others.

Edward Kadane, appearing after the first act as "A Sunny Son of Italy," drew prolonged applause with his two dialect readings and later Miss Dorothy Ellis, soprano soloist, scored a decided hit with her two vocal numbers.

Music by the high school orchestra served to enliven proceedings continually.

Between the second and last acts Miss Jaunita Kinsey, dramatic coach, whose work was largely responsible for the success of the production, was enticed to the center of the stage, the curtain raised and before an escape could be effected was presented with a handsome wrist watch as a token of appreciation from the casts of "The Lucky Dog." The presentation was made by Gage McDermott and Miss Kinsey responded with a few words of thanks, after which she retired to the wings and enjoyed a good, womanly cry.

As a feature of the opening exercises a pantomime, "A Romance of the Ganges," was offered by seven high school girls and Miss Kinsey as interlocutor. Those making up the very capable cast were Misses Lucille Benson, Beatice Gatlin, Joe Betsy Miller, Anna Keevil, Burch Murphy, Mildred McKee and Jewel Cummings.

The entire high school senior class marched on the stage before the first act of the play and informed the world through the medium of parodies on popular songs just who and what they were.

STRONG NORTHEAST WIND ACCOMPANIED BY WARM WEATHER

A strong northeast wind arose during the night Wednesday and Thursday morning it was instrumental in chasing the dust and sand across the prairie and down the streets. Warm weather however accompanied the wind and the sun started sending the mercury up immediately after sun rise.

The high mark of the thermometer for Wednesday was the 85 degree point and during the night fell but 18 degrees. The minimum temperature locally was 67 degrees. Forgan reported a low point of 4 degrees. At Amarillo the agent reported a minimum temperature of 74 degrees as did Texline.

Clear skies were reported from all points on local railroads and the wind direction generally was northeast varying in velocity.

RECENT RAINS DELAY PLANTING AT BYERS

BYERS, TEXAS, May 18.—The heavy rains that fell here Monday and Tuesday came as a great disappointment to the farmers and others. The fields were just getting into shape after the previous rains for the resumption of plowing. Only a small percentage of the cotton is planted, as so many had the first crop washed away. The farmers of this section are planting one of the largest crops ever planted in this country.

FEEBLE MINDED PEOPLE OFTEN MAKE SUCCESS; MANY ARE CRIMINALS

ST. LOUIS, May 18.—Feeble minded persons often make a success in life, albeit more than 25 per cent of the criminals come from the ranks of such persons, according to Dr. Walter E. Fernald, a counselor for the American Association for the Study of Feeble Minded, which opened a convention here today.

Dr. Fernald said he found among feeble minded people "traitors of industry and perseverance" which can be trained and developed and which does a great deal toward making those who receive this training successful people.

A Beautiful Watch

WE all love beauty. A beautiful thing satisfies us—our mind, our eyes, our sense of perfection.

The graceful, slim case. The chaste design of the bow and the distinction of the raised figure dial—all appealing, seductive, satisfying.

But beauty in a Waltham Watch goes deeper than what you see and touch; it reaches into every tiny part of the famed movement—even to that which you do not see—hidden away to do its life-long work, but made with precious care.

The Waltham Colonial Series No. 1420 is worth looking at, but it is supremely worth owning. It is a watch of which any man can say—"I own a beautiful watch, dependable, accurate and lasting."
